LOOK OUT FOR FIRE!

To Theater Owners, Managers and Whom it May Concern:

This is to certify that I have equipped the Windsor theater in this city with the Kindgren chemical fire engines. After examining all other systems of fire protection, and after repeated tests of the Kindgren stationary chemical fire engine, and upon the recommendation of the insurance underwriters, I have no hesitation in pronouncing it the cheapest and most powerful, as well as perfect, fire protection for theaters ever invented. In my opinion every theater and opera house in the United States, as well as Europe, should be equipped with these chemical fire engines, and thus save the loss of life and thousands of dollars in property.

Respectfully,

(Signed) H. J. GOLDY,

To Whom it May Concern:

This is to certify that I, George A. Burbank, witnessed the exhibition of the Kindgren chemical engine test to-day, and as I have witnessed great many such chemical tests in New York City, Boston, Philadelphia and other large cities in the East, I hereby state that it was the quickest and most satisfactory test, and was also pronounced so by two of our councilmen and all the citizens present, and I will also state that the time of applying the chemical was left entirely to me and I did not give the word until the fire was well started, for in other tests I have witnessed they have always put the chemical on the minute the fire was started and water would never last as well, as there was nothing but the flame started and the wood not charred, and I take great pleasure in recommending the "Kindgren" as far superior to any other "Chemical" engine on the market.

THE PRESIDENT'S PROCLAMATION

Congressman Wilson and J. W. Robinson Facilitate the Act.

HARRISON WAS NOT QUITE READY

The Great Proclamation Was Signed With a Gold Pen Made From the Ore of a Washington Mine.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—The far Northwestern coast territory is no more. Washington is a state. President Harrison and Secretary Blaine signed the proclamation of admission at twenty-seven minutes after 5 o'clock this evening, in the presence of Private Secretary Halford, Congressman Wilson and J. W. Robinson, who brought in the first returns. The corrected returns arrived last night, and were examined by Attorney-General Miller this morning. Everything had been prepared at the state department, awaiting Governor Moore's certificate.

Congressman Wilson and Mr. Robinson went to the White house at 2:30 A. M., after having found that the attorney-general had forwarded the corrected returns. The congressman remained on guard until the proclamation was signed, only leaving a few minutes for lunch. When he first went in the president, who is personally acquainted with him, said: "How are you, John? What can I do for you?"

"I feel pretty well, Mr. President, but I will feel better when you sign that proclamation making Washington a state."

The president said he would see what he could do, and Mr. Wilson and Mr. Robinson held the fort. After waiting until late in the afternoon, they were informed that the proclamation would not be signed until Tuesday, but here they insisted that now was the accepted time, and upon their request a note was sent to Secretary Blaine asking him to come to the White house with the proclamation. The secretary responded, and he was soon in the president's room with the paper, which it was signed by both. The document was signed with a gold pen made from ore taken from Washington mines. The penholder was of ebonized laurel, a product of the new state. Both pen and holder will be presented to President Harrison to-day. Both Congressman Wilson and Mr. Robinson were happy to-night. The proclamation was issued much earlier than it would have been had not their persistency made the president act.

The proclamation is as follows:

By the President of the United States of America,

PROCLAMATION.

WHEREAS, The congress of the United States did by an act approved on the 22d day of February, 1889, provide that the inhabitants of the territory of Washington might, upon the conditions prescribed in said act, form a constitution and state government; and,

WHEREAS, It was provided by said act that delegates, elected, as therein provided, to a constitutional convention of the territory of Washington, should meet at the seat of government of said territory, and that after they had met and organized they should declare on behalf of the people of Washington that they adopt the constitution of the United States, whereupon said convention should be authorized to form a state government for the proposed state of Washington; and,

WHEREAS, It was provided by said act that the constitution adopted should be republican in form and make no distinction in civil or political rights on account of race or color, except as to Indians not taxed, and not repugnant to the constitution of the United States and the principles of the declaration of independence, and that the convention should, by an ordinance irrevocable without the consent of the United States and the people of said state, make certain provisions prescribed in said act; and,

WHEREAS, It was provided by said act that the constitution thus formed for the people of Washington should be submitted to the convention forming the same, to be submitted to the people of Washington at an election to be held thereby on the first Tuesday in October, 1889, for the ratification or rejection by the qualified voters of said proposed state, and that the returns of said election should be made to the secretary of said territory, who, with the governor and chief justice thereof, or any two of them, should canvass the same and certify the result of the legal votes cast thereon, and if a majority of the votes cast thereon, or upon the question, be for the constitution, the governor should certify the result to the president of the United States, together with a statement of the votes cast thereon, and upon the separate articles or propositions, and a copy of said constitution, articles, propositions and ordinances; and,

WHEREAS, It has been certified to me by the governor of said territory that such election was duly held, in pursuance of said act of congress, and the constitution thus proposed for the state of Washington has been adopted, and that the same has been ratified by the majority of the qualified voters of the said proposed state, in accordance with the conditions prescribed in said proposed act; and,

WHEREAS, It is also certified to me by said governor that on the same day that the vote of said constitution was submitted to the people, the two separate articles, entitled "women's suffrage" and "prohibition," were likewise submitted, which said separate articles did not receive a majority of the votes cast thereon, or upon the question on, and were rejected; also that at the same election the question of the location of a permanent seat of the government was submitted, and that no place received a majority of all the votes cast upon said question; and,

WHEREAS, A duly authenticated copy of said constitution and articles, as required by the act of congress aforesaid, have been received by me;

NOW, THEREFORE, I, Benjamin Harrison, president of the United States of America, do, in accordance with the provisions of the act of congress aforesaid, declare and proclaim the fact that the conditions imposed by congress on the state of Washington to entitle that state to admission to the Union have been ratified and accepted, and that the admission of said state into the Union is now complete. In testimony whereof I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

Done at the city of Washington this 11th day of November, in the year of our Lord, the 1889th, and of the independence of the United States of America the 114th. BENJAMIN HARRISON.

By the president,
JAMES G. BLAINE, Secretary of State.

WALLA WALLA REJOICES

At the Proclamation that Gives Statehood to Washington.

WALLA WALLA, Nov. 11.—At an early hour this afternoon word was received here that the president had issued the proclamation giving us statehood. Immediately flags were hoisted over all the public buildings and business houses. Many residences displayed bunting.

This evening cannon were brought down from the fort and forty-two rounds fired from Main street bridge. To-night large numbers of citizens, without preconcert, have assembled on the streets and in great good humor march down the sidewalk complimenting each other on the great event.

ENTHUSIASM AT TACOMA.

TACOMA, Nov. 11.—The subject uppermost in that impersonal existence, the public mind, to-night is the birth of Washington state, accent being placed on the final word. The joyful event being expected, the city's mayor had made such preparations as the arsenals of Tacoma provided for a demonstration. It was limited to one cannon, which nevertheless possessed historic importance by having been given to a citizen of the city when it Alaska when that province was ceded by Russia to the United States. It had been used on a Russian man-of-war and is a twenty-four pound piece. Forty-two shots were fired in honor of the occasion, and everyone who had a flag hoisted the national emblem amid undeniable enthusiasm.

ANNUAL ESTIMATES.

Recommendations for Appropriations Will Not Be Extravagant Yet Ample.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—The annual estimates upon which are predicated appropriations which will be made by congress for the next fiscal year is just now occupying a good portion of the time of officials of the executive departments. It is generally understood that recommendations will not be of an extravagant character, while at the same time due regard will be had to the necessities of the government.

Many public improvements for the Pacific coast will be recommended in the estimates. One of the most important matters which will be called to the attention of congress relates to efficient protection of the chief seaports of the country. It is argued that the present healthy condition of the treasury, would justify congress in making liberal provision for this great work. With this object in view estimates will be submitted, making provision for the commencement of a system of modern fortifications, and the amount which can be thus expended to begin the construction of modern batteries for the protection and defense of San Francisco is $400,000.

The lighthouse people have projected a number of necessary works on the Pacific coast for the benefit of commerce and navigation, and will ask congress to make provision for their construction. A light and fog signal station is needed at Point Arguello, twelve miles north of Point Conception, and one of the foggiest regions on the coast it is said, the cost of which will be $35,000. A sharp bend in the coast here, it is stated, makes it particularly desirable that proper aids should be established. A light and fog signal station at Point Bunkon, near San Luis Obispo, which is a prominent and dangerous point, will require an appropriation of $35,000. The establishment of a light and fog signal station at Punta Gorda between Shelter Cove and Cape Mendocino, will take $40,000. The lighthouse people here say that there are several dangerous sunken rocks that add to the hazard of navigation, and on dark nights overhanging mountains keep the shore line in shadows. For establishing the light and fog signal station at Humboldt upon a more secure site $25,000 is required. Further up the coast, the appropriation of $12,000 will be asked for, to erect a lighthouse and fog signal station on "also island, Washington. On further examination it is found that the small light will be inadequate for the needs of commerce in Grey's harbor, Washington, and an appropriation of $50,000 is needed for a lighthouse of the first-class and fog signal station. The re-establishment of a fog signal at Cape Flattery will involve an expenditure of $17,000, as it is proposed to remove it to West island, where, it is thought, it will be much more effective as an aid to mariners. A lighthouse and fog signal is projected at Turn point, the west end of Stuart island, the cost of which will be $15,000. A light will mark the place where a change of course is necessary in passing through the San Juan channel. Improvements, estimated to cost $200,000 are projected for the Mare Island navy yard.

Nothing has been said, as yet, of river and harbor improvements. It can be said though that the department is inclined to favor liberal appropriations for river and harbor works as no provision was made for their continuance at the last session and besides the condition of the treasury warrants this action.

CONGRESSMAN MORROW'S VIEWS.

Reed Will Probably Be Speaker—He Will Look Out for the Pacific Coast.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 11.—Congressman W. W. Morrow, representing the Fourth congressional district of this state, left for Washington, D. C., to-night. Before starting, Morrow was interviewed by THE OREGONIAN'S representative.

Speaking of the relative strength of candidates for speakership of the house, he said: "I am advised by my correspondents that Reed is probably in the lead for the position. McKinley probably comes next in strength."

"There is no doubt," said he, "that there will be a bill reported from the house committee on ways and means reducing the tariff, but substantially on the lines of bills reported by the senate at the last congress, as a substitute for the Mills bill. There will certainly be a removal of the internal revenue duties on tobacco and on distilled spirits used, and on arts and manufactures.

The wools of the coast were referred to, and on this point Mr. Morris was emphatic. "We shall insist," he said, "upon the continuance of appropriations for the navy and its adjuncts, and upon increased appropriation for fortifications and defenses. The report of the board on fortifications and defenses submitted to congress in 1885 recommended a policy which would require a large appropriation for the purchase of steel forgings for guns and steel plates for ships. We believe it would be in the interest of a proper defense of this coast for the government to establish such an assembling foundry on the Pacific coast, and to offer encouragement to private enterprise to erect steel furnaces for the purpose of turning out steel forgings, as at Bethlehem and Midvale.

THE NATIONAL GRANGE.

To Be Handsomely Entertained by the Citizens of Sacramento.

SACRAMENTO, Nov. 11.—William Johnson, president, and E. W. Hancock, secretary, of the commission appointed by the governor to entertain the members of the National grange, have departed for the state line, where they will receive the excursionists to-day. The train carrying the visitors is expected at 6 A. M. It is expected that 150 members will arrive upon this train. The state board of commissioners have requested the officers of the state grange, past masters and members to receive the incoming patrons at the depot. The assembly chamber has been handsomely decorated for the occasion of the banquet and reception there to-morrow night. The arms of the various states to be represented are among the decorations, while the floral features are elaborate. It is expected that between 300 and 600 will be in attendance before the close of the session, which will occupy at least eight days, and probably a longer period. While nothing definite has yet been announced it may be stated that the public reception on the part of the citizens will occur Thursday evening in the state capitol. It is expected that Mayor Gregory, Governor Waterman, Senator Stanford and others will deliver addresses of welcome. The session will be formally opened at the assembly chamber Wednesday at 10 A. M.

STRUCK ROCKS IN A FOG.

The Steamer Queensmore Lost Off the Irish Coast—All Hands Saved.

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—Captain Brooks, of the steamer Arizona, from Liverpool, arrived to-day, and reports that at 1 P. M., Nov. 5, in latitude 57 degrees 9 minutes north, latitude 25 degrees 17 minutes west, he sighted the steamer Queensmore, bound east, flying the signal, "I am on fire." The Arizona stopped, and Captain Brooks offered any assistance in his power. The Queensmore's commander asked him to tow her to port, but this, Captain Brooks said, was impossible. He stood by for an hour, and the Queensmore then signalling, "Good-bye," the Arizona continued on her voyage. A cable has since brought the intelligence that the Queensmore went down in a fog Friday, having struck rocks at Three Castles head, off the Irish coast. She had a crew of seventy-five men and a cargo valued at $500,000, including 895 head of cattle. All the crew were saved. She was owned by W. H. Johnson & Co., of Liverpool, and was bound from Baltimore to Liverpool.

SUNOL THE MARVEL.

Senator Stanford Agreed to Sell Her to Bonner Before Her Recent Feat.

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—Robert Bonner has purchased the great 3-year-old, Sunol, from Senator Stanford, of California. Sunol on Saturday last trotted a mile in the unparalleled time for a 3-year old of 2:10½.

Bonner's offer for Sunol was made, and was accepted by Senator Stanford before she made this great performance. Sunol has also the fastest record ever made by a 2-year-old, having trotted last year in 2:18. The granddam of Sunol is by a thoroughbred horse, and are also the granddams of Maud S. and Jay Eye see, thus showing that the three greatest trotters the world has yet produced have a thoroughbred blood, which gives them their great endurance. Maud S. having a record of 2:08¼, Jay Eye See of 2:10, and Sunol of 2:10½, when she is only 3 years old.

RECEPTION OF THE GREAT NEWS

Olympia Holds Aloof from Active Fight for Offices.

EFFORT MADE TO FORCE A BALLOT

Lawmakers not Willing to be Driven—Squire and Allen Ready to Await the Pleasure of the Houses.

OLYMPIA, Nov. 11.—After thirty-six long years Washington to-day cast off her bonds of territorial servitude and took her place among the sisterhood of states. All day the stars and stripes have fluttered in the misty atmosphere from the flag-staff of the state house, in honor of the great event.

The news of the admission of Washington created but little enthusiasm. It was but the recognition of rights to which the people had long been entitled, and they did not feel inclined like throwing up their hats and shouting. The long deferred had well nigh made their hearts sick. Besides the official notice of admission had been anticipated in a private dispatch received Saturday night, and early this morning Governor Moore received the appended telegram, which further informed him of what was coming:

EXECUTIVE MANSION, WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.
The certified copy of the constitution was received here this morning. The proclamation will be issued to-day and you will be advised of it. E. W. HALFORD,
Private Secretary.

"It is about time the proclamation was issued," was the common verdict of the people.

Politicians immediately fell to discussing the bearing that the proclamation would have on the ballot for United States senator. They were just divided as ever on the subject. Late in the afternoon Governor Moore was officially advised of the issuance of the proclamation, whereupon he sent the following message to the legislature:

OLYMPIA, Nov. 11.
To the Senate and House of Representatives of the State of Washington: I have the honor to advise you of the receipt of the following telegram:

EXECUTIVE MANSION,
WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.
To Miles C. Moore, Governor: The president signed the proclamation declaring Washington a state of the Union at 5 o'clock and 20 minutes this afternoon. J. G. BLAINE,
Respectfully, MILES C. MOORE,
Governor.

Lieutenant-Governor Laughton interrupted the proceedings for permanent organization in the senate to read the governor's message, and the applause which followed the announcement fairly shook the building.

You could have heard a pin drop in the house when, at 4:50 P. M., Speaker Feighan brought the gavel down upon his desk, and, rising, announced that he had a message from Governor Moore. All was attention as he read, and when he had finished a great cheer went up from every member and obtained additional force from spectators in the lobby.

When the noise had subsided Tucker of San Juan arose, but was so full of enthusiasm he could not proceed for a few seconds. When he regained control of his tongue he said: "Hurrah for the state officers, hurrah for the legislature, hurrah for Speaker Feighan, and hurrah for everybody." He did not care what was done so long as Washington had taken its place in the galaxy of states. There was a ripple of applause as he resumed his seat.

Then Speaker Feighan commanded the attention of the house for a moment. He said it gave him great pleasure to be speaker of a house composed of such a noble body of men.

In another moment the house forgot about the admission of Washington and was involved in the senatorial muddle.

The Associated Press agent here received the following dispatch from the congressman-elect this afternoon.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.
Washington is now a state. I saw President Harrison sign the proclamation.
JOHN L. WILSON.

Both houses are now fully organized and each has notified the other that it is ready for the transaction of business. The senate spent the afternoon in effecting a permanent organization, and the house in completing its organization and in wrangling over the senatorial question.

In the house the slate had been well fixed and it was railroaded through. Everything passed off smoothly. Not a ripple disturbed the surface. Every nomination received half a dozen or more seconds and from the amount of red tape indulged in one would have thought that the president of the United States was being elected each time.

The legislature will meet again at 1 P. M. to-morrow.

There came near being a scene in the house when the assistant doorkeeper was being elected. One of the nominees was T. H. Tipton, a young colored man of Tacoma, who stumped the state for the republicans in the last campaign, his candidacy being urged on the ground that he had drawn 600 votes from the democratic party.

Power, of Kittitas, said that in his county he found that the negroes were blood-suckers, taking money from both parties.

Speaker Feighan promptly silenced him, and gave him to understand that a man's character would have to be dealt with tenderly in the house.

Browne, of Spokane, thought the house had a right to hear of a man's defects as well as his good points, and was told that the house had a right to appeal from the decision of the chair. He then sat down.

Tipton's defeat was brought about by a statement that he worked for the democrats as republicans too.

The people of Olympia are fearful that something may arise which will tend to decrease their chances for securing the state capital. Many prominent men requested the Thurston county delegation to take no active part in the fight over small offices. The request was obeyed in both houses to-day.

SENATORIAL SKIRMISHING.

Detailed Account of the Attempt to Force a Senatorial Ballot.

When I what a row the attempt to take a ballot on the senatorship stirred up in the house this afternoon. The Squire and Allen men were determined to have a ballot and wended their way over to the state house primed for the effort. The adherents of the other candidates were just as determined that there should be no ballot, but the fact that there was none was not a victory for them. It was due to the uncertainty as to the legality of the ballot at this time.

When the Squire and Allen men left the house this afternoon they were determined on forcing a ballot when the legislature meets tomorrow, but after supper they discussed the subject among themselves and changed their minds. Owing to the uncertainty as to the legality of a ballot, they have decided not to vote until the 19th, which will be the second Tuesday after the organization of both houses. The law will then have been complied with in every respect, and there will be no question of the legality of the election to be held on that day. The continued agitation of this question during the past week has had the effect of making the muddle deeper and deeper.

Governor-elect Ferry is responsible for much of this. When the legislative complication arose he was off of the first to assert that the legislature could not legally elect senators until after the issuance of the proclamation, and others have fallen into this line and accepted his view. It is now a question of one and half a dozen of the other. A test case was had in the house this afternoon. Three members who had voted by supposing the resolution called for the election of senators under the enabling act, changed their votes to no the moment the speaker announced that President Harrison had issued a proclamation.

Public sentiment sustains the action of the Squire and Allen managers in deferring a ballot. It is probable that the legislature will adjourn to-morrow or Wednesday until the following Monday, when Governor-elect Ferry will be inaugurated

The senatorial subject was not broached in the senate at all. The plan of the Squire and Allen forces was to have the joint resolution originate in the house. When it failed there the senate adjourned

Governor Squire was seen to-night and questioned about the postponement of the ballot. He said: Owing to the uncertainty which hangs over the situation we have decided not to take a ballot until the 19th. I have no fear of loss by postponement. My forces are well organized and I am confident of my election."

At John B. Allen's headquarters a similar statement was made.

Ex-Chief Justice Burke of Seattle was in town to-night and expressed this opinion of the senatorial muddle: Section 16, title 2, chapter 1 of the revised U. S. statutes relates to the electing of senators to fill vacancies. Regarding Washington I do not think there is a vacancy in the sense implied in the act, inasmuch as it had never had a senator. Now, of course Washington is a state, but I still think the text of the revised statutes is not applicable to the present state of affairs.

There is no change in the senatorial situation. The Squire and Allen men are confident and so are the others for that matter. The deferment of the ballot has given the opposition a new lease of life which will last a week, but it will cost them something for the free whisky and cigars with which they supply callers at their headquarters.

The efforts of Thompson's friends to induce Cyrus Walker, the Seattle sawmill king, to become a candidate with a view of drawing off some of Squire's support has proved fruitless. Walker is an intimate friend of Squire's and will not enter the arena. A Seattle man quotes him as saying that he would not see Squire defeated for $50 000.

It being the understanding that there will be no ballot to-morrow, Leigh S. J. Hunt, proprietor of the Post Intelligencer, and many other Seattle ites who have been here in the interest of Squire left for home on a special boat to-night.

THE SESSION IN THE HOUSE.

An Exciting Fight Over the Motion That Meant a Ballot.

Speaker Feighan spent ten minutes looking for a clergyman to open the proceedings of the house with prayer but was unable to find one. A tall gray whiskered man who was standing outside of the railing was asked by the speaker if he was a minister of the gospel.

"I beg pardon I am not, sir," he retorted amid laughter.

After the minutes had been approved the committee on permanent organization reported that in addition to the officers already elected the following officers were needed to complete the organization of the house:

A secretary to the speaker to be selected by him, an assistant sergeant-at-arms an assistant to the chief clerk enrolling and engrossing clerks, with assistants for each a journal clerk a doorkeeper and an assistant, who shall be janitor, a messenger and an assistant and three pages. In regard to the selection of a chaplain the committee called the attention of the house to section 11 of art cle 1 of the constitution which says: "No public money or property shall be appropriated for or applied to any religious worship, exercise or instruction, or to the support of any religious establishment."

"We have no further business on schedule. What is the pleasure of the house?" said the speaker, when the report of the committee had been filed.

"Pickrell's motion to complete the organization of the house was voted down.

Kuhn's motion to take the report of the committee on permanent organization from the table was carried, after which the house voted down Kuhn's motion to strike out assistant sergeant-at-arms and assistant enrolling clerk and proceeded to an election of the officers named. Robert Kinman, of Seattle, having no opposition for sergeantry was unanimously elected, William M. Chandler, of Lincoln county, also had a walk over for assistant clerkship. C. B. Cox, of Spokane Falls was elected enrolling clerk, defeating Miss Minnie Fenderson, of Snohomish who was subsequently elected his assistant. Miss May Stream of Pacific county received the unanimous vote of the house for engrossing clerk and Robert Black of Chehalis county for journal clerk. The nominee for doorkeeper were H. McKay, of Port Gamble M. A. Day, of Adams county and T. H. Tipton (colored), of Tacoma. McKay won in second ballot. Day was chosen assistant doorkeeper. A. J. Mills, of Clarke, beat E. A. Shields of Whatcom, and E. H. Kilroy, of Yakima, for messenger. Shields was made assistant messenger. The pages elected were James Brouwer, Morton Mason and Claud Stock. Miss Lulu Carson of Spokane Falls, was elected docket clerk. W. H. Hazard, of Seattle, was her opponent. Brown of Spokane, Geoghegan, Brown of Pierce, Grant and Kuhn were designated to confer with the senate committee to fix the salaries of the employes of both houses.

On motion of Hughes Speaker Feighan was authorized to appoint a committee to prepare a list of standing committees.

The work of permanent organization having been completed there was nothing else to do but to adjourn or for some one to move to proceed to the election of senators. Everybody knew that Geoghegan was not going to move to adjourn when he offered this resolution and moved its adoption.

Resolved, By the house of representatives the senate concurring that each house of the legislature of the state of Washington proceed at the hour of 7 P. M. on the 11th day of November 1889 to name by viva voce vote of each member present, two persons for senators in Congress from the said state, and at the hour of 12 o'clock, meridian, on the 12th day of November 1889 the members of the two houses shall convene in joint assembly, and if two of said persons voted for shall not have received a majority of votes in each house the joint assembly shall then proceed to choose by a viva voce vote of each member present one or two persons, as may be necessary to fill said offices of senators in congress for said state.

Hughes moved to read the resolution a second time, and Plummer bobbed up and declared that it could not be done without a suspension of the rules which required a two-thirds vote.

Roll was called, and the vote stood:

ABSENT.

Gandy Stiger

It was while the clerks were counting the votes that Speaker Feighan received the message from Governor Moore informing him of the issuance of the proclamation.

When the certificate was handed Allen and Squire men had been downed but they were not by any means. They knew that the strength was sufficient to suspend the rules but they were able to carry the house.

Hardly had the speaker announced the result of the vote when Grant jumped up and objected to this resolution.

Resolved, By the house of representatives that this house proceed at the hour of 10 o'clock A. M. on the 13th day of November, by viva voce vote of each member present to elect persons for senators in congress from the state of Washington.

Then the filibuster rigs was resumed. Plummer was first to show his hand. He offered an amendment to make the time November 19 at 1 P. M.

Judson raised the point that the amendment was out of order because it did not touch the subject matter of the resolution but the chair overruled his point.

Nims Pickrell and Grant made speeches holding that it would be legal to take the bal ot while Plummer took the opposite view.

"Who is governor of Washington may how?" asked Shaw. The state has been admitted but Governor Ferry will not be inaugurated for a week."

"That is a question of authority that the five governors must settle," answered the speaker.

Just as Geoghegan moved the previous question, Secretary Barton announced that the senate was ready for business and had elected Parkinson president pro tem.

That settles it," said the Squire and Allen men gleefully. They did not feel so jolly half a minute later when the chair announced the defeat of the previous question by a vote of 31 to 30.

Kuhn started the ball rolling again by saying that he did no object to the election of Parkinson but to the hurried mode of proceeding to the adoption of the resolution.

Herren quoted from the enrolled act as part of his argument that the legislature had a right to elect senators now or at any time it saw fit. He said it should proceed to elect at once, and then transact the business before it.

Browne of Spokane took the opposite view. He held that the enabling act did not repeal the law of the United States governing senatorial elections.

Moultray was in favor of taking a ballot.

At this stage of the proceedings Secretary Barton announced that the senate had adjourned.

Geoghegan immediately moved to lay the subject matter of the resolution on the table. The motion prevailed and the house adjourned.

PROCEEDINGS IN THE SENATE.

Report of Committee on Organization—Election of Various Officers.

The senate was called to order promptly at 1 o'clock.

Senator Fairweather, chairman of committee on organization, reported that the committee recommended as follows:

That the senate employ one chief secretary at $6 per day, one assistant secretary at $5 per day, one journal clerk at $5 per day, one engrossing clerk at $4 per day, one enrolling clerk at $4 per day, one sergeant at arms at $6 per day, one assistant sergeant at arms at $5 per day, one messenger at $3 per day, one porter at $2 50 per day, two pages at $2 50 per day, one watchman at $2 50 per day, and six committee clerks at $4 per day. The committee further recommended that a president pro tem be elected, and also a messenger to act as postmaster. On the question of the chaplaincy the committee could not agree, and respectfully submitted the matter to the senate as a whole.

Senator Owings suggested that enrolling and engrossing clerks be left out of the report and those clerks selected with regard to their fitness. There had been some miserable work in that line by clerks under the territorial council and the senate owed it to itself and to the people to get proper persons to do this work.

Senator Parkinson was in hearty sympathy with the suggestion. He recommended that none but male clerks be employed in such positions.

Before the report was disposed of the secretary's salary was raised to $8 per day, that of watchman to $3 50, and committees were authorized to hire their own clerks.

Cushing's manual was voted to be the official guide of the senate.

After a recess of fifteen minutes the senate began electing its clerks.

Austin Parkinson Watson and Wooding were appointed the committee to select enrolling and engrossing clerks. C. M. Bartou of Tacoma, was unanimously elected secretary and J. N. Romaine of Okanogon assistant secretary. The other officers elected were journal clerk M. T. Crawford, sergeant-at-arms, H. A. Clark of Spokane Falls, assistant sergeant-at-arms, John Conna, of Tacoma; messengers Henry Cowles, of Olympia; porter J. W. Orr of Seattle; copying clerks Miss Fannie Troupe of Vancouver and Miss Adelia Gage, of Olympia; pages William Lynch, Willie Hagemier and G. A. Reed, watchman, Anson Burlingame.

For president pro tem Parkinson of Whatcom was nominated by Kinnear, and Loug of Lewis by Owings. Parkinson received 17 votes, and Long 16. Parkinson's election was made unanimous. He made a brief speech thanking the senate for the honor.

CAPITAL NOTES.

It is a queer state of affairs which admits of a state being governed by territorial officers. But the law says that the governor elect of the state shall assume the duties of his office on the Monday following the issuance of the proclamation. Governor Moore is therefore the last of territorial governors and the first governor of the state. His term in the latter capacity will last until next Monday.

Samuel C. Hyde of Spokane Falls, the ex-senatorial aspirant, is making a strong fight for the United States circuit judgeship against H. G. Struve of Seattle. Influential friends are working for him and he assures a good chance of getting the place. When Hyde arrived here recently and saw that it was impossible for him to beat Allen, a committee of the Spokane delegation went to Squire and offered to withdraw Hyde and give him the support of the delegation if he would use his influence to get the coveted place for Hyde. Squire now claims the support of the Spokane delegation and it is whispered that the deal has been made. Struve is said to be on Allen's slate for the judgeship.

Governor Moore to-day appointed George A. Allen district attorney of Douglas, Lincoln and Adams counties vice Wallace Mount resigned, and W. M. Rudpath of Spokane Falls district attorney of Spokane county vice W. C. Jones, who resigned to become attorney general.

Several hundred citizens met with the ministers of the city this evening for the purpose of adopting some method of breaking up the hands of criminals and prostitutes in the famous White Chapel district and driving all such characters from the city. The meeting was the result of visits paid Whitechapel by clergymen about two weeks ago who now claim it is the worst place in the world. It is claimed that Tacoma is sending her disreputable population here as a last Saturday night free excursion was run from that city to Seattle, purporting to be given by the vaudeville theater proprietor of this city. The excursion brought over several hundred which increased the already overflowing population of foot pads, gamblers and other catch basin characters. The meeting adopted appropriate resolutions calling on the citizens to protect the city from ruin and appointed a committee of ten to organize a law and order league to assist the civil authorities in ridding the city of its bad element. Chief of Police Mitchell has forestalled the preachers by waging a merciless war on the vicious element, having arrested an average of over twenty prostitutes and gamblers nightly during last week.

The business men of Seattle have for some time been contemplating building a line of steamers to run on the waters of the sound in their interest and to-day a movement was started that will result in the necessary boats being built at once. It means a great thing for Seattle as many steamers on the Sound and particularly those owned by Tacoma capitalists have been discriminating against this city. The company will be known as the Seattle Steamship Company. It will be incorporated with a capital stock of $250 000 divided into shares of $100 each. The idea is to build two steamers this year. Next year more will be built.

This morning word was received at the sheriff's office from Captain H. Jacobson of the bark C. D. Bryant, of San Francisco, asking protection for his non-union crew from the interference of the seamen's union in Seattle. The sheriff finding protection necessary placed several deputies in charge. The trouble is the result of a war waged by the seamen's union against ships employing non-union men. When the ship was anchored at Port Townsend Saturday Captain Jacobson left her over night and when he returned learned that Port Townsend delegates of the seamen's union had been aboard and endeavored to get the crew off. When all was ready to sail the men refused to stir. They had mutinied the seamen's union being too much for them. A distress signal was given and Lieutenant Broadbent of the cutter Wolcott with a crew of blue jackets went aboard, the vessel and placed the mutineers in irons. The men were released how ever, before the steamer arrived in this city under tow of the tug. Forseeing trouble here the captain lost no time this morning in placing himself under the sheriff's protection.

CHEHALIS, Wash., Nov. 11.—A sad tear is creeping over the social circles here over the alleged desertion of Herren by his wife. Herren, John F. Allen and the campaign. Mr. Herren, having only been in Washington territory under stand that he was to be a resident of Allen and if it had been left to the people would have been much smaller than it was. Herren's non-residence was secured on the plea that he had been elected county representative, and by the act of admission of Washington, created out of the boards of the office and that Herren further deserved it by his hearty work in the campaign. In which Allen was elected Governor. This plea was considered good by republicans who were in part opposed to Herren's election, but they joined with the party generally in the contest. Unqualified, Governor Allen is the choice of the people of Lewis county for chief executive and opposition to him from the representative democratic source is met with good grace.

During a recent visit to Pacific county your correspondent met many republicans who were quite well pleased in their district to see Mr. Allen elected senator while none was heard to oppose him. Many also expressed a preference for ex-Governor Squire as the second senator. These two names met with favor in the extreme western counties, as well as in the middle west.

THE CRONIN TRIAL.

Weaving the Chains About O'Sullivan, Kunze, Coughlin and Burke.

CHICAGO, Nov. 11.—In the Cronin case this morning witnesses were introduced who testified that Kunze last spring went under the name of Kaiser. Other witnesses testified to acts showing the intimacy between Kunze and Coughlin, and Kunze and O'Sullivan.

Gus Kare, a tinner, testified to having soldered up a galvanized iron box 14x28 inches for Burke two days after the murder. Burke objected to witnesses removing the cord from the box which held the top on. In the course of a conversation Burke said that Cronin was a spy and ought to be killed.

Joseph O. Byrne, senior guardian of a Cronin camp of the Clan na Gael, told about a conversation that he had with Beggs and others two or three days after Cronin's disappearance. Beggs expressed the opinion that Cronin would turn up all right and Dunn's Ward, who was with him, said that he thought Cronin had run away with some woman.

Maurice Morris, a friend of Cronin's, testified as to a conversation that he had with Dennis Ward, in the presence of Beggs. Ward asserted that Cronin had gone away with a woman, whereat Morris got mad and said emphatically that Cronin had been murdered and "by people in this city." Beggs thereupon said, "Oh, you are not posted; we are in the inner circle, and know what we are talking about." In reply to questions by the attorneys, Morris stated as his definition of the Inner Circle that the I. M. B. before they united with the U. B. belonged to the Inner Circle. A lengthy examination regarding the Inner Circle, Triangle and Antitriangle of the Clan na Gael incidentally dragging in the fiction fights in order to establish if possible, what Beggs's reference to Inner Circle meant then ensued.

Finally Forest for the defense, objected to it all as hearsay and inadmissible.

Foster ounsel for Beggs was willing that it should remain in evidence but the court finally ruled that it should be stricken out so far as it applied to any of the defendants except Beggs.

Cronin's clothes and surgical instruments, found in the Lake View sewer last Friday, were then exhibited, and a sewer cleaner told about finding them.

Mrs. Conklin, at whose house Cronin lived, identified the clothes and other articles as Cronin's property.

QUARREL BETWEEN LAWYERS.

After the adjournment of the court this afternoon there was a quarrel between Attorney Forrest of the defense and Mr. Hynes of the counsel for the state in which some bitter personalities were exchanged. States Attorney Longenecker warned Forrest that violence would not be tolerated in the sewer and remanded to the custody of Police Captain Schuettler for cleaning and deodorizing as the taint of the sewer was very perceptible in the courtroom. Forrest refused to be muzzled by them and intimated that the police captain was not a proper person that they should be placed in charge of a clerk of the court. Forrest's insinuations against Schuettler were taken up by Hynes, and a personal dispute ensued, in which both gentlemen abused each other. Judge McConnell finally ended a half in the proceedings.

THE MARINE CONFERENCE.

English Delegates Allowed by Their Government to Take General Discussion.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—When the international marine conference had been called to order today Delegate Hall immediately called attention to the fact that at the time the British delegates to the conference were appointed they were instructed to discuss only general divisions one and three of the programme as prepared by the board from the United States, because Great Britain was of the opinion that the scope of the programme was too extensive for them to take up progress that has been made the delegates had received instructions from her government to engage in the consideration of the various divisions of the programme. Hall thinks the delegates from the United States have fallen in with the arrangement.

THE CINCINNATI SUNDAY BAW.

Three Theater Managers and Companies Fined for Breaking It.

CINCINNATI, Nov. 11.—Three theater managers to-day with one opera company, one gaiety company and one dramatic company were before the police court to-day charged with a violation of the law which prohibits Sunday performances. The managers were fined $25 each, and all of the performers were sentenced to pay the costs of the prosecution. In the case of one of the actresses it was a second offense. The judge gave it to notice that another violation of the law would subject all parties concerned to arrest at any time during the performance, and to such additional fine within the law as might seem best to the court.

PORTLAND BENEFITED.

The Union Pacific Combination Makes Some Changes.

IMPORTANT OFFICES LOCATED HERE.

The Rock Island Road Has Consummated a Deal to Fight the Great Alliance—Plans Will Soon Be Made Public.

CHICAGO, Nov. 11.—It is stated on good authority that the Rock Island road has made satisfactory arrangements for competing with the Northwestern and Union Pacific combination for the Pacific coast traffic.

President Cable was successful while in New York in securing allies for a transcontinental combination, and only minor details of the plan remain unsettled. The same authority says that the facts will be given to the public in a few days. President Cable refuses as yet to make any statement.

THE NEW TRAFFIC AGREEMENT.

The First Official Intimation of It Made by the Chicago & Northwestern.

CHICAGO, Nov. 11.—The first official intimation of the reported traffic arrangement between the Chicago & Northwestern and Union Pacific railroads came from the former to-day. The companies have formed a combination for the handling of freight and passengers, and the joint through service is to be known as the Chicago Union Pacific & Northwestern line. A fast limited mail train will be established November 17 whereby passengers and mail will be carried through from Chicago to Portland and San Francisco making the time from Chicago to Portland eighty three hours, and from Chicago to San Francisco eighty five hours. This will reduce the time heretofore made on the Chicago & Northwestern as well as the New York and Eastern mail to Portland seven hours, and to San Francisco twelve hours, the arriving time of the new train being 6 40 A. M. at Portland and 10 45 A. M. at San Francisco, instead of in the evening as heretofore. It makes the practical delivery of mails twenty four hours quicker. A similar reduction in the time Eastbound is made on passengers and mail, which now reach Chicago at 8 30 A. M.

The jurisdiction of the general freight and passenger agents located at Portland will extend over the lines both by rail and water west of Huntington, Oregon, also over the line from Granger, Wyoming, to Huntington, Oregon, including branches of the same, also over such business as originated within the territory described above going to the stations on the other part of the system or beyond, by way of these stations, and also east bound trans-continental traffic.

The jurisdiction of the general freight and passenger agent located at Salt Lake will extend over the lines of the company south of Ogden from Ogden to Silver Bow, and from Ogden to Green River, including the Echo & Park City railroad, also over such business as originates within the territory described, also excluding to stations upon other parts of the system.

FROM MONMOUTH.

Nov. 11.

There are six literary societies connected with our school.

Prof. Jolliffe, teacher of music, has organized a class in voice culture.

Miss Marie Velten returned to her home at Portland last week, after a visit to friends at this place.

Miss Eva Copeland, the art teacher, returned from a short stay at her home in East Portland, last Friday.

Rev. Laye, of this place, conducted services at the Christian church in Independence, on last Sunday evening.

Miss Sarah Cavitt, of Zena, spent Friday visiting her old friends at the normal. Miss Cavitt was a member of the class of '87.

The senior review class have organized and are pursuing the work with interest. They now number thirty, with more to come.

Miss Tuthill, teacher of elocution, has organized a private class for elocutionary work, which meets on Saturday of each week at 2 P. M.

Monmouth is not behind in the building boom that seems to be striking every town of any importance throughout the entire Willamette valley.

"Old Polk" is certainly in the lead this time. Found, on the 4th day of November, near the town of Monmouth, a handful of ripe wild strawberries. Where is the climate that can excel this?

Every county in the state is represented at the normal, with the exception of Coos, Curry, Lake, Josephine and Klamath. The attendance exceeds any record of the past, for this time of the year.

The ladies and the gentlemen of the school have organized themselves for athletic training. The ladies under the guidance of Miss Tuthill, and gentlemen under the instruction of Professor Campbell. They use the dumb-bells, Indian clubs and calisthenic exercises.

As the new normal building nears completion it assumes more stately proportions, and attracts the attention of all who pass. There will be four recitation rooms and an office on the first floor, besides large hallways and entrance room. The chapel occupies the entire second floor with the exception of a library room. This chapel, when completed, will be one of the largest and most beautiful in the state. Its dimensions are 56x80x29.

In addition to our beautiful school building there have been several residence and business houses erected. However, one of the most important movements in the way of business is the erection of the Polk County Bank block. A brick structure of this character cannot fail to add to the appearance of any town, as well as add immeasurable in its business facilities.

A Novel Inscription.

Fordham, the jockey, selected for the inscription on his coffin: "It is the pace that kills." H. A. Huguenin, of Hinsdale, N. Y., said: "I received more help from Dr. Pierce's Liver Pills than from all others I ever used." The rapid pace or haste so prevalent with most persons at table causes dyspepsia and sick headache. The pills cure all such cases. Try them.

DR. DARRIN'S ART

Of treating diseases by electricity is, like many other good things in medicine, not new, but its principle of action is so little understood that its employment at the present day makes it practically a new discovery. The medical profession at large, not possessing the true secret of the proper remedies to use, are still blundering in the dark, and throwing discredit through their ignorance on one of the greatest medical advances of the present day.

For the benefit of those to whom this plan of cure is new, and who may be seeking aid, though distrustful, after many failures of everybody and everything, the Drs. Darrin desire to explain simply and logically the theory of electro-therapeutics, and leave them as men of common sense and judgment to take or refuse the aid offered as their arguments and examples are based on known physiological facts and experiments. They ask nothing beyond a fair hearing and a fair trial.

Deafness Cured in Ten Minutes.

Mr. Editor: For some time I have been troubled with partial deafness, and lately could scarcely hear in one ear, with a constant ringing noise. I consulted a doctor in Portland which did me no good. I finally went to Dr. Darrin and in less than ten minutes he cured me with electricity. I am an engineer on the steamer City of Toolo, running from Astoria to Kalama.

G. SCHMITH.

Once He Had Pimples on His Face.

Mr. Editor: For ten years past I have been troubled with nervous debility and pimples on my face and body, as hundreds of other young men are afflicted with. Have been under Dr. Darrin's electric treatment for six months and now find myself restored to health, and the pimples have about disappeared. Refer to me at Mulino, Clackamas county, Or.

C. E. KNOTTS.

Cures of private diseases guaranteed, and never published in the papers. Most cases can receive home treatment after a visit to the doctors' office. Inquiries answered and circulars sent free. There are 11 men in Umatilla county who pay taxes on five thousand dollars and over that amount.

There is a woman near Astoria who has to hold up her hand and get permission from her husband before she can go out. She is going to school to him.

Why should mails from Spokane Falls to Portland come round by way of Tacoma? Perhaps the superintendent of railway mail service can answer.

Peter Jackson, the colored pugilist, found no difficulty in making a match in England, where years ago Molyneux, a negro, was the champion of the prize ring.

Klamath county is very rich in natural advantages. It contains over a million acres of timber land, over half a million of grazing and 315,000 acres of fine farming land.

Real estate transfers in Seattle for the year 1889 will exceed the sum of $12,000,000. This indicates a healthful and hopeful condition. It demonstrates a steady and permanent growth.

Major Powell of Washington, director of the geological surveys, says that during September 550 square miles were surveyed in Montana for irrigation at the expense of the government.

Mayor Godet, of Montesano, has invited a number of persons to attend the completion of the Puget Sound & Gray's Harbor railroad, which will be celebrated on the 26th of this month.

Navigation on the Upper Willamette river has improved very much within the past month. Steamers are now running as far south as Albany, making regular trips between that city and Portland.

Men willing to serve the city of Pendleton as councilmen are very scarce. Four are to be elected next month, and municipal patriotism unrewarded seems to have little attraction for the Pendletonians.

It is thought that natural gas may be obtained within twenty miles of Tacoma, by boring for it. Such a discovery would prove of incalculable value and add to the great resources of our sister state.

Recently at a point twelve miles north of Davenport rich specimens of galena were discovered which assayed 55 per cent. of lead and eight ounces in silver. This ledge is in limestone formation, and has been traced for 2300 feet.

J. C. Turner, while filling the office of auditor in Whitman county, made an abstract of title for a Portland firm and omitted a mortgage for $6000. Last week Mr. Turner gave a mortgage on his own property to cover the amount.

The first sod on the Nicaragua canal has been turned with formal ceremonial. This is an auspicious event for the Pacific coast. If the canal is ever finished, no part of the the world will reap more real and lasting advantage from it than this.

The Tacoma saloons are now compelled by law to close at 11 o'clock P. M. The new move, as is to be expected, meets with the disapproval of loafers and bad characters generally, but will be conducive to the peace and good order of the city.

Specimens of coal taken from the croppings of a vein have been discovered near Marks creek, about twenty-five miles east of Prineville. The coal was tested by the blacksmiths and was pronounced first-class. The vein is about three inches wide at the surface.

The Crook county court determined that by School Superintendent Slayton's leaving the state his office became vacant, and at the session this week, J. J. C. Lawson was appointed to fill the vacancy. Mr. Lawson is an experienced teacher and well qualified for the place.

The new Chicago, Union Pacific and Northwestern line has given the first official intimation of its existence in a circular just issued from Chicago, announcing the starting on November 17, of the new fast mail train, running to San Francisco and Portland in eighty-five hours.

There is a movement on foot in Helena to organize a stock company for the purpose of buying control of the Whitlach Union property, at Unionville, and resuming operations upon mine and mill. The Whitlach Union was once a wonderful gold producer, and it is said is still a rich mine.

Steps have been taken at Medical Lake for the construction of water works, and it is said that operations will commence at once. The Medical Lake Powder Company are making the improvement. The water will be taken from Silver lake, a large body of fresh and pure water lying one mile east of Medical lake.

The Klamath County Star exhibits a spirit of enterprise equaled by but few journals in the country. Under the head of telegraphic news it claims to receive dispatches two days in advance of the Portland and San Francisco papers. In other words the Klamath County Star publishes the account of events two days before they occur.

A meeting of the Teachers' Institute of Gilliam county will be held at Arlington in the M. E. church on November 13, 14 and 15. A most interesting programme has been arranged. This custom of teachers meeting and exchanging views concerning their profession must result in benefit to the educational interests of the state.

The Helena Journal printed itself in red ink on the day Montana was admitted to the Union. It pretends that this was intended to work a "red letter day" in the history of the state; but the democrats suspect a more sinister meaning. It does look a little like a response in kind to the blood-thirsty, revolutionary editorial of the Independent.

Bradley Barlow, well known on this coast, and in Portland died in Denver, Colorado, on the 2d inst. He won a fortune in the overland stage and express business in the West as a member of the well-known firm of Barlow & Sanderson, from which he retired in 1877. Barlow then bought up the Southeastern road, now a branch of the Canadian Pacific, and antagonized the Vermont Central monopoly. Barlow failed in 1883, his liabilities amounting to $750,000.

Congressman John L. Wilson added to his other services to the state of Washington by bringing it into the Union one day earlier than it would have been admitted without his earnest personal efforts. He laid siege to the White house from 9 A. M. to 5 P. M. to see the president and persuade him to abandon the purpose to let the matter lie over another day. The scenes and incidents of the memorable signature are all emblalmed for history in a Washington special to THE OREGONIAN.

HE IS CHARGED WITH MAYHEM

Charles McLaughlin Arrested for Biting Off Half of W G Long's Thumb

The police have performed another act worthy of commendation in the arrest of Charles McLaughlin, a notorious tough who was yesterday bound over from the police court on a charge of mayhem.

McLaughlin and one W G Long, engaged in a bar-room fight in a saloon on Second and Taylor streets about ten days ago, and during the scuffle McLaughlin nearly bit off half of his antagonist s left thumb besides chewing off a good sized piece from one of his cheeks. He left the city before anyone could arrest him and remained away until Sunday night when he was pointed out to Officer Young on First street by Long Upon seeing the officer McLaughlin took to his heel and started to reach his horse which was tied at the corner of Second and Madison streets. Officer Young having been told that his horse was there hastened to cut off his means of escape by taking a short cut, thereby reaching the animal in advance of the fugitive who disappeared in the darkness The horse was taken to Magoon s stable for safe keeping

About three hours later Long again came to Officer Young telling him that he believed McLaughlin was in hiding in the Rosebud saloon on Second and Salmon streets. Officers Young and Holsapple accordingly went there, but failed to find their man They had just left the saloon to give up the search when McLaughlin ran into their open arms. Seeing that resistance was useless he surrendered with the remark, Well, you have got me at last.

McLaughlin waived examination when arraigned in the police court yesterday afternoon and he was held to appear before the grand jury under bonds in the sum of $500.

"LO, THE POOR INDIAN," ETC.

A Brave, His Squaw and Their Two Papooses Visit the City

An Indian family consisting of a brave his squaw and two young papooses, were one of the sights on Front street yesterday afternoon They observed the same order in walking through town they would in following a narrow mountain trail The brave, after whose name an interrogation point would not seem out of place, walked ahead with a light rifle, to which was tied a small bundle, thrown over his shoulder Next came Mr Indian jr a lad of perhaps twelve summers. He was burdened with two large packages that bulged out on either side, as he carried them under his arms, like two additions to a booming Oregon town Last trudging along at about three rods behind Mr Indian, jr, came the squaw She carried nothing but a pappoose, strapped on her back with a shawl and a buckskaw The supposed pappoose was of the sixty pound variety and seemed to enjoy the city sights immensely To one witnessing this procession of the noble red race, the question arose whether there is not something radically wrong with the familiar expression "Lo the poor Indian etc. Although the sympathies of the public appeared to be with the mother of the pappoose no one was heard to say Lo the poor squaw etc

PORTLAND, TUESDAY, NOV. 12.

THE NEW ENGLAND POINT OF VIEW.

The Springfield Republican, on the morning before the Massachusetts election, printed a frank and thoughtful article on the relations o' the New England manufacturers to the republican party and their attitude towards its declared tariff policy. The writer points out what he considers a remarkable change in public opinion upon this subject in Massachusetts and throughout New England since the last national election, and says:

The leading republican iron manufacturers of the state have declared over their signatures that unless the policy of the party in the nation is reversed their particular industry in this section is doomed to final extinction No less significant is the more quiet, but equally powerful concentration of sentiment within the woolen industry against the present tariff taxes upon raw wool which the party in the nation has promised to maintain or increase. Round about this agitation irrespective of party for free coal and iron ores lower duties on the cruder forms of iron, free wool or ad valorem taxes on the same and kindred reforms has grown within ten months a movement of remarkable and powerful proportions which is bound to increase.

It is impossible to overlook this movement or belittle its importance It is written in natural law that a manufacturing section devoid of the raw products to be fashioned by its industries cannot compete with a manufacturing section possessed of the raw products Distance cannot be annihilated it must be overcome and the cost of overcoming it will effectually handicap the remoter section That is the situation into which New England is drifting under the present tariff laws which have cut it off from natural opportunity * * Under the present tariff with equal conditions otherwise prevailing industrial New England cannot make headway against competition in the section manufacturing as well as producing the raw products of our own manufactures.

The writer's premises are stated with peculiar cogency and clearness, and it is impossible to quarrel with his conclusion that the material interests of the New England manufacturers would be advanced by the triumph of the democratic party and the adoption in tariff legislation of its favorite principle of free trade in raw materials It is true that the New England manufacturers of metals and textiles have reached a point where either free trade in raw materials or a considerable reduction of transportation charges from the West, is a condition of their continued existence. They are threatened with a competition against which no amount of duty on finished goods can protect them—the competition of other American manufacturers, situated nearer to the point of origin of the domestic raw materials they use in common This competition grows closer and sharper every year with the growth of new manufactures in the West It meets the New England monopolist and overbids him in the interior markets for raw materials It meets him and underbids him in the interior markets for finished products One of these not distant days, it will meet and underbid him in the markets of New England itself, and sell goods manufactured in the Mississippi valley out of raw materials grown there cheaper than they can be made in New England out of raw materials carried a thousand miles

The ultimate solution of the problem of cheap manufactures lies in reducing the distance, first, between the place of production of the raw material and the point of manufacture, and, second, between the place of manufacture and the market A proximate and temporary solution is found in cheap transportation This New England has had for a generation With its aid and the command of the appliances of capital and labor an older community has, she has been able to maintain her manufactures of textiles and metals, in spite of her distance from her source of supply and her markets She has been able to pay freight on crude goods from and on finished goods to the West, and still sell them there at a profit This was extravagant and wasteful production but the poor devil of a consumer paid for the waste, and the New England manufacturer grew rich Under the operation of the protective tariff which was invented for the benefit of the Eastern manufacturer, and which forbade resort to cheaper markets abroad, the Western consumer was obliged to pay tribute to a system of production, which violated economic principles by carrying goods twice over a needless journey and burdening the consumer with the cost of the double transit

This state of things could only last in a progressive and prosperous country keenly alive to its own interests, until conditions favorable to the establishment of manufactures grew up in the West. It has been prolonged, however, beyond its just expectancy of life by the constant and rapid reduction of freight charges from the interior, which has enabled the New England manufacturers to reduce the price of their goods and still compete successfully with their Western rivals. But these rates have apparently been reduced to the lowest practicable point. Even now it is only the Canadian lines that are able to carry freight to and from the interior cheap enough to enable New England to compete successfully with the manufactures that have grown up in the West, with the accumulation there of capital, skilled labor and all the appliances of industry Under the interstate commerce law the American roads can no longer carry goods cheap enough to enable New England to undersell the West in her own markets This was clearly brought out in the hearing before the senate committee in Boston last winter With the complete development of industry in the West a time is coming when it will not only supply its own markets but invade those of New England

This is the inevitable which the New England manufacturer foresees, and which he is moving the heaven and earth of his little local cosmos to avert Various causes have prolonged his unnatural and unfair advantage in the domestic market for finished goods, until he has come to conceive himself as having a prescriptive right to it. All his demands for protection against foreign competition have been so unhesitatingly met in the past that he is now emboldened to ask protection against domestic competition which attacks him in a perfectly natural and legitimate way and threatens to undersell him simply by complying with certain economic principles his situation compels him to violate Having levied tribute with impunity for a generation upon the domestic consumer to maintain his monopoly against foreign competition the New England manufacturer now thinks himself entitled to levy tribute on the domestic producer to preserve his monopoly against domestic competition It ought to be clearly understood that this New England and Eastern demand for free trade in raw materials, is simply a demand for additional protection for the Eastern manufacturer—protection not against Europe but against the West, and protection not only at the cost of the domestic consumer, but at the cost of the domestic producer Everybody in the country who does not own stock in a New England mill or factory must sell cheap and buy dear in order that those who do may thrive Industrial and productive enterprise in the interior must be throttled that New England industries built up under temporary and false conditions, may continue a system of wasteful and uneconomic production at the expense of the consumer This is precisely the meaning of the crusade for free trade in crude products in which the gentlemen quoted by the Springfield Republican are engaged, and which it declares will lead them into the democratic party, if their demands are not satisfied in the republican. Nobody can blame them for going where their interest leads them; but they must not be permitted to shape out of their selfish yearnings for monopoly a tariff policy for the whole republican party. The United States is a good deal bigger than New England and the republican party is bigger than the New England manufacturers. They may all go to the democracy or to the devil together The West will very soon be strong enough to take care of the republican party and the policy of protection to all home industry, productive as well as manufacturing, along with it, without any aid from them.

FANATICISM RUN WILD

The members of the national W C T U convention now in session in Chicago were greatly shocked a few days ago by a dispatch received from Washington by their worthy president, Miss Willard, which declared that 'a straight barroom license had been issued to Vice President Morton's new hotel" Whether the horror of these women hinged upon the commonplace fact that the e is to be another hotel in the capital city with bar attachments or that Vice President Morton is the owner of the hotel, and to this extent in their estimation is an arch enemy of temperance, cannot be gathered from the utterances of the sisters but the weight of evidence seems to be in favor of the latter fact

Be this as it may the reading of the dispatch was followed by a brief interval of appalled silence during which it may be presumed, each sister re'd in the other's countenance her own dismay Finally however Mrs J Ellen Foster of Iowa who has seen in her own state, the pernicious results of the introdu tion of W C T U whims in politics suggested that it did not comport with the object of the organization there represented to attempt to extend a jurisdiction over the business affairs of the vice president of the United States—a suggestion that was followed by a sharp exchange of doubtful compliments between the good sisters which drew the fire of their indignation temporarily at least, from the conspicuous person whose action had first aroused it

What with assertions relative to the truth or falsity of the report, and divers and sundry insinuations of the 'you're another" type the scene in the convention Saturday resembled that in a late territorial constitutional convention in the Northwest, when the woman suffrage question was brought up

Fortunately at this juncture John P St John, prohibition heavyweight from Kansas, appeared upon the scene and proceeded to give the "straight of the story," as women say From his statement it appears that the vice president actually has as a property owner consented that the lessee and manager of his hotel may establish a bar in connection with the same It does not appear that the guests are to be collared and led protesting to the bar and there be forced to pay their money and imbibe, but the dreadful inference is that such of these as desire a dram can procure it without going out of the house. This condition of affairs, Mr St. John declares would never have been had the vice president "loved humanity, his country and his God as a man occupying his exalted position should," but that on the contrary he would have "forbidden the sale of liquor in his hotel."

It does seem a pity that prohibitionists cannot get even a vice president made to order The practical element in politics is reasonably well content with a man in this position who in addition to being a man of affairs, is honorable and sober, able to preside over the United States senate with dignity, and who is withal possessed of sufficient political sagacity to divest the possible contingency of his promotion to the presidency of apprehension and dread These people—misguided no doubt—think it possible to love country have charity for humanity and a proper reverence for the "Supreme Ruler of the Universe" as the Washington constitution has it without treating men as if they were irresponsible creatures from whose pathway all temptation must be rigidly excluded by law The spectacle presented by such a man as St John boldly censuring others for not doing in a public capacity what he himself has failed to do in bringing up his own family in the matter of enforcing temperance, would be ludicrous if it were not contemptible His puerile logic makes it reasonably plain that a person does not have to be a woman in order to be a mild and impractical fool, while the sturdy and sensible position taken by Mrs Foster on the question of Mr Morton's management of his private business concern proves that even a woman may, through opportunity, rise above the 'teacup stage of political opinion, to which Miss Kate Field, angered by the namby-pamby views of the fanatical temperance workers of her sex, declared to be distinctively feminine

WHY THE CHURCHES DIVIDED

Archbishop Ryan of Philadelphia said in his address at the opening of the Catholic centennial at Baltimore The civil war, which split up all non Catholic denominations into Northern and Southern organizations showed forth the united power of the Catholic church and also exhibited her marvelous and well-regulated charity" The reason why the civil war did not disturb the Catholic as it disturbed other churches lay in the fact that the Catholic church in the North did not denounce the sin of slavery as Protestant churches did Archbishop Ryan now says 'I believe that the sin of slavery and the unjust treatment of the Indians are great blots upon American civilization" Good words, but had they been generally spoken thirty to forty years ago by the Catholic clergy at the North as they were generally spoken by the Protestant clergy there would have been intense strife within the Catholic church on sectional lines The Catholic church did not denounce the blot of slavery as it ought to have done at the time when slavery was the burning moral question in our country's history It made the mistake of supposing that the question was political rather than moral, and though many eminent Catholics were outspoken for freedom the church, as such, did not declare itself and in consequence the cause of freedom did not have the active support from the great body of Catholics that it ought to have received Protestant churches at the North on the contrary, very generally took their stand against slavery, not however, on political or partisan but on moral grounds They denounced it justly as a blot upon civilization, an outrage upon human rights the deepest of immoralities a thing accursed of God and man This was righteous treatment of the sum of all villainies' It did indeed split all non Catholic denominations into North rn and Southern organizations' but what of it? Every moral question that can affect the life of a people was involved in the controversy over slavery and can a church contend for anything better than for the morality justice freedom humanity civilization and righteousness that should be wrought into the basis of national life' It the contention splits churches so much the better, for by that token we may be sure that the conflict is growing intense and that as the outcome the right must prevail Churches never could be split in a better cause

The detail work in the eleventh census will be much greater than that eve before bestowed upon a census report The work has been carefully and intelligently systematized and much of that which is termed preliminary is already in hand although the enumeration proper will not be begun until next summer The birth and death rates of the country will form a new and valuable feature of the report In this will be included the principal causes of death in twenty four of the largest cities of the nation and a special study of the influences of race on fecundity and mortality It is gratifying at least to know that matters of vital importance such as these will not be taken solely upon assertion as heretofore It will be a triumph for American women if the wholesale denouncement which they have received for evading by criminal means the duties of motherhood is disproved by the figures and facts of the eleventh census True this may deprive the sensational preacher of a subject for a doleful sermon semi annually—such a sermon as makes the men of his congregation have a contempt for him and causes the women to pity his wife but the public will be the gainer there by even if a long and prosy disquisition upon foreign missions, or a bristling pugnacious discourse upon the scriptural mode of baptism is furnished instead We trust that in this, as in other things 'facts will be submitted to a candid world 'even if every self constituted censor of mothers in American pulpits is forced to journey to Palestine for a new' theme for a Sunday evening sermon

The democratic governor of Montana seems to be reasonably certain that the two senators from the new state will be republican He has taken pains to call the legislature in special session so late that they can not be present at the organization of the senate if indeed they are able to be in Washington at all during the first month of the session The legislature is called to meet Saturday November 23 Under the statute, balloting for senators can not begin till a week from the following Tuesday or the 3d of December the day following that of the meeting of the fifty first congress However prompt the election the senate will have been in session a week before the Montana senators can reach Washington If there is a contest or a deadlock the state may remain unrepresented for a month There was nothing to prevent Governor Toole calling the session ten days earlier thus making it possible for Montana to be represented on the opening day of the session of the senate He is hardly to be blamed for taking any lawful partisan advantage delay offers but it is significant of his hopelessness of seeing the senators elect democratic that he should take such pains to keep them out of their seats as long as possible

The election of senators in Washington territory is postponed until November 19 not so much because the legislature doubts the legality of an earlier election as because the two leading candidates, who have most to gain by an early election, could not muster quite enough assured support to warrant them in insisting upon a vote yesterday Had it been desired to elect, there was plenty of time between the meeting of the legislature and the hour at which the president's proclamation made the territory a state and raised the question of the necessity of conforming to the general statute Having missed the opportunity for early action of undoubted legality, the legislature apparently thought it best to be on the safe side, hence the general consent to postpone balloting to the 19th, which is the statutory second Tuesday of the session There can be no more delay after that date, however, as the same statute that fixes it provides that a ballot for senator shall be taken every day until an election is had. For the rest of this week the legislature will probably try its prentic hand at legislation

This is the fourth time in recent years that Ohio has elected a democratic governor It elected Hoadly in 1833, Bishop in 1877 and Allen in 1873, and now it has elected Campbell. The legislature has been democratic many times Thurman was sent to the senate two terms Pendleton one term and Payne one term There has been one democrat in the United States senate from Ohio during the whole period of twenty-four years past. It will be seen, therefore, that it is no unusual thing for Ohio to go democratic But the state never goes democratic in a presidential election Its electoral vote has not been thrown for a democrat since 1852 and there is not the slightest reason to suppose that it will be thrown for a democrat in 1892 or within a long time thereafter

A prominent physician of Tacoma is said to be implicated in the death of a young German girl, a domestic in that city, last week. The child, for she was scarcely 15 years old, died, as was given out by her physician of malarial fever and duly buried After several days the body was disinterred and the cause of death was traced to criminal mal practice The 'prominence' of a physician should not screen him from the full penalty of the law in such a case, but it probably will It is so easy in such a case to censure the corpse and make a feint at catching the man who was the author of the girl's ruin that this is the course generally adopted

Tacoma's attempt to fix the license to sell liquor in that city at $1000 a year failed through the veto of the mayor and the inability of the friends of the measure to pass the ordinance over the veto It is evident that the people of Tacoma will be compelled to endure the evils of which such loud complaint has recently been made, until there is a change in the municipal government of the city Whether this will be ordered at the next election depends upon the extent to which citizens will support their complaints by their votes

The Chicago Times makes this judicious observation viz Iowa's revolt against prohibition following hard upon the reconsideration in Rhode Island and the refusals in the staid commonwealths of Massachusetts and Pennsylvania may not convince sincere prohibitionists of the futility of their effort to fix their restrictive idea formed upon inadequate knowledge of the creature called man but will drive from insincere support of the proposition the politicians who hope to make it serve their purpose

Daisy Newman former y of San Francisco now Baroness Von Bruen of Berlin acknowledges that she married the German banker whose name she bears for money While such a confession is wholly superfluous, it would have been a credit to the woman to have observed a silence on the subject Marriage under such circumstances is at best but a flimsy cloak in which inmorality masquerades in the guise of decency

Ohio democrats show a disposition to use the enginery of their victory in that state in a manner that will make the republicans most severely conscious of what they have lost This is well The more bitter the notion the more complete the republican recovery after the dose has had time to thoroughly permeate the body politic

SPIRIT OF THE NORTHWEST PRESS

MAKE CONVICTS SELL SUPPORTING

Ellensburg Localizer some of the newspapers seem to think that it is wrong to employ convict labor in making stoves or art cles of manufacture The force of their arguments is that it is better for the state to support these law breakers in idleness than for them to come in competition with worthy labor. That is all right and honest if this is the only method wrong to protect the labor of the penitentiaries by employing the convicts in making supplies to supply the home demand of the county. But if factory work is what has to help keep up the penitentiaries Now if this can be made to support themselves even to a limited extent it is for the general good of the commonwealth and civilization away that much labor from California or foreign governments

ABBREVIATION OF WASHINGTON

Dayton Chronicle 'About the worst abbreviation of Washington that we have yet seen is "Wn" It is often mistaken by the postal officials for a contraction of Minnesota and letters sent accordingly All of us may be able to write as Spencerian collegets as the noodle who discovered Wn. and to such the good old fashioned "Wash" will still commend itself" In the above extract the Spokane Record expresses the plain common-sense doctrine about the proper abbreviation of the name of the state Those persons who cannot spare the time to use more than two letters might use G W Those who are in a position to afford correspondence that they will not postpone business matters for a poker engagement, will continue to write the name in full.

AN OPINION ON IRRIGATION

Flagstaff Localizer The states east of the Rocky mountains are discussing the advantages of irrigation. There are certain districts where the rainfall is uncertain at certain seasons when it is needed and with the view of providing a supply at such times it is proposed to resort to irrigation Of course it will be an experiment, and may or may not work satisfactorily We do not believe that the soil in the section named will irrigate successfully It is only sage land, which is composed more or less of sand that can be successfully irrigated Clay soil will carry the water off and not absorb it like sage land

CARELESS ABOUT TITLES.

Pullman Herald It is strange how careless people in the West are, as a rule in buying real estate They will rely on the statement of the seller that the title is perfect while the majority of sellers know no more about their titles than the purchaser There is too much money at stake to be careless in such matters. Before purchasing the buyer should insist on an abstract of title and should have the abstract examined by an attorney and pronounced perfect before he pays a dollar If this were done there would in every case much trouble and expense would be saved.

TO SUPPRESS HORSE THIEVES.

Arlington Times The action of the county court in increasing the reward for arrest and conviction of horse thieves, cannot be too highly commended This evil has assumed such gigantic proportions that something must be done to suppress it The extent to which stock thieving is carried on would surprise most stock men even It appears that regular organized bands of thieves are operating in this western country An organized effort on the part of cattlemen must be instituted before much can be accomplished

BUSTLING THE COW-OWNERS

Albany Democrat The value of the cow when killed is generally assessed high The company offers to compromise on a less amount The owner refuses. A suit follows. The company pays for the cow all the same but it sights on principle just the same as the owner of the cow If it didn't right it would have its hands full all the time if it fights as a revolutionary measure. As its attorney is paid by the year what's the odds any way, and it makes cow owners rustle.

SERVING MONTANA INTERESTS

THE LEAGUE AND THE ASSOCIATION

Meeting of the National Board of Arbitration in New York

NEW YORK Nov 11—The board of arbitration of the National League and American Association met to day Considerable business was transacted but the sessions were held with closed doors Representatives of the minor leagues expressed themselves satisfied with the agreement for 1890 and had no changes to suggest except perhaps that the minor leagues be given the privilege of suspending a player in July instead of August as by the present agreement The board re-elected President Young and Secretary Byrne for the ensuing year The dispute between the Chicago and Omaha clubs of the Western Association for the services of Nagle and Coogan of the latter was settled between Spalding and Mr Dimmel the representatives of the two clubs with Secretary Byrne to the board The petition of several players of the St Joseph club to be elected from the mandate of the reserve rule because the club had not paid their salaries was granted Several changes in the articles of admission into the world's championship were discussed and finally adopted Mr Davis decided to give the minor league cash bonus to first and second baseman of the same as the national league and a special bonus to that in which a player refuses to sign a contract the club can reserve him from year to year He cannot however be indefinitely suspended. A rule was adopted prohibiting any minor league club from playing a game with any club that contains an ineligible player. Disputes arising between clubs in which are ineligible players during the pending Mike Kelly came into the hotel He was greeted by Director Soden of the Boston club and the two held an earnest conversation for five minutes. What there was something in the wind was evident and it was rumored that Mike was ready to sign the league contract, but no one could be found who state tha such was the case.

CONGRESS OF LAYMEN.

Opening of the Catholic Convention at Baltimore.

ADDRESS BY DANIEL DOUGHERTY

The Famous Orator Given an Enthusiastic Welcome by the Delegates—The Pope's Blessing Cabled—Other Addresses

BALTIMORE Nov 11.—The 1200 delegates to the first congress of Catholic laymen of the United States were called to order shortly before noon today by W J Onahan, of Chicago Every seat in the hall was filled and the galleries were crowded

The first applause of the assembly was elicited by the entrance of ex Governor John Lee Carroll with Archbishop Ireland, of St Paul and Archbishop Ireland briefly invoked the Divine blessing and in a few remarks introduced Carroll as temporary chairman mentioned the name Pope Leo Instantly there was hand clapping and cheering soon growing into tumultuous enthusiasm The scene was a notable one, as the delegate swung their hats and shouted greeting to the Roman pontiff

Cardinal Gibbons delivered the address of welcome in the course of which he said that he had for a long time desired to see the clergy and laity come more closely together The clergy, he said had much to learn from the laity from their wisdom and discretion and above all, from the worldly knowledge of the laity, and that there was no country on the face of the earth where the clergy and laity should be more united and co operate more with one another, than in these United States

Carroll, on taking the chair, said It may be thus the convention will be asked by what authority is this congress held, and under what law does it assemble? In reply to this we would suggest by the sanction of his eminence, the cardinal archbishops of Baltimore and the distinguished prelates who now surround us, and by virtue of the authority of the constitution of the United States The congress has but two great purposes at heart, viz The glory and purposes of the Catholic church, and the continued prosperity of the American people'

The following cable from Rome was read

Cardinal Gibbons Baltimore Having made known to the holy father the expressions and devotion conveyed to him on the part of the Catholic congress to be held in Baltimore his holiness graciously bids me say that he most affectionately imparts his blessing to all the members

M CARDINAL RAMPOLLA

Daniel Dougherty, of New York, was invited by the chairman to address the congress pending the appointment of the committees. The famous orator was in his best form and voice. He was given a perfect ovation by the congress He sketched the history of Catholicism in this country, and said that in colonial times the Catholics suffered the direst cruelties in comparison with which the slaves were high bred guests The only religious martyrs in America were Catholics. They were spurned, slandered vilified, and the highest honors of the republic denied them by a prejudice as strong as a constitutional enactment. The consolations of religion were denied the sick and, suffering Catholics in many institutions of charity and to criminals in prison They could call themselves pre-eminently American, for without Catholicism America would be unknown. The liberty to worship God was established in America by Catholics first Although the growth of the country has been marvelous, that of Catholicism has outstripped it. From a despised people they have become a mighty power The Catholic church is the protector of learning. It was she who saved classic literature from the ruins of the Roman empire

He continued On the eve of the celebration of the four hundredth anniversary of the discovery of America, it is appropriate that the tremendous results achieved are due directly to the Roman Catholic church alone. Protestantism was unknown when America was discovered. It was the Catholic Columbus who conceived the mighty thought. Cardinals interceded with the sovereigns of Spain, the Catholic king and queen, and made this expedition possible. It was to spread the Catholic faith that the risk was run and it was the standard of Catholic faith which was first planted on these shores and for over 100 years the only Christian worship on the continent was Catholic.

All through Dougherty's address there were outbursts of cheers and at the conclusion the dignified audience crowded around him and shook him warmly by the hand

Several other speeches were made by prominent Catholics. The temporary organization was made permanent and a short recess followed

On reassembling the committees were announced and the regular work of the congress began by the reading of the first paper on The Catholic Congress by the historian, John Shea of New York The next paper was by Major Henry J Bowman, of Detroit, on "Lay Action in the Church"

No further business of importance was transacted until the afternoon, when Charles J Bonaparte eloquently discussed the independence of the Holy See, the necessity for which he enthusiastically upheld He gave a vivid sketch of changing conditions from the time of Charlemagne to the moment of the Italian gifts, the forcible deprivation of Pius IX of all temporal authority, and the enactment of the law of guarantees whereby the Italian parliament professed to guard papal rights. He thought that the more important features of this guarantee should be made the subject of a treaty between all the great powers, making it world wide In the course of Bonaparte's remarks great cheering was elicited by he declaration Whether the pope be an exile or a captive, a subject he cannot be'

Adjourned until to-morrow

To-night a great reception was tendered the visiting prelates and other distinguished persons at the hall occupied by the congress to-day The city was beautifully illuminated during the reception, particularly Cardinal Gibbon's residence and the rooms of the Catholic laity in every quarter In the reception hall the jam of people was almost suffocating The welcome to the distinguished guests was delivered by ex-Congressman Roberts of Mary and While he was speaking two Indian chiefs in full panoply and caped in embroidered many colored blankets, were seen moving their way through the crimson vestured prelates to where stood Cardinal Gibbons. The Indians reached for the hand of the robed ecclesiast c, and bending low at each kissed his archiepiscopal ring while the spectators stood in wonder finally breaking into a chorus. The Indians were Joseph Collins, Chief Joseph, of the Fatheads of Montana and Chief White Bird, of the Sioux of Dakota They were given seats of honor close beside the cardinal with their traveling companion Father Van Gorp, S J of the Rocky mountain Jesuits.

The most extraordinary scene of the evening came at the conclusion of the reception when the prelates, headed by the cardinal made the circuit of the hall, shaking hands with the people right and left in the manner of passage The display of enthusiastic devotion by the crowds was probably never equalled in this country. The Bishops and archbishops especially those from the West Ireland of St Paul Foley of Detroit and Riordan of San Francisco, were seized from every side How they got safely through the exuberant demonstrations of affection can never be accurately told. A notable event was also in progress at Loyola college It was the ormation of a National Alumni Association from all the Jesuit colleges in the United States The resolutions which the committee of the congress of laymen approved as to-night, to be submitted to the convention, are understood to be strictly confined to topics pertinent to the announced objects of the congress as follows The devotion of Catholics to the constitution and laws of the lands the necessity of the independence of the holy see Catholic education for Catholics, Christian schools for Christian people the duty of supporting Catholic journals and encouraging them in every way a wider diffusion of Catholic literature the rights of Catholics to liberty of conscience and freedom of religious worship in the army and navy and in all public and charitable institutions and the wisdom of encouraging emigration to the land

This was done and that lady was escorted to the platform where she was greeted with an ovation that set reception Miss Willard said that she was sure that many ladies had voted for her who were not in sympathy with her methods She took this to mean that they desired her to try to keep the peace She would try not shunning true to the light that shines upon the W C T U she felt that she was put under a blessed restraint by what had been done

A few department reports were read, and the election of the other officers was referred.

There was another rebel spat over the Morton resolution question at the afternoon session One of the delegates read a telegram from some one in the East reasserting the statement that a license for a barroom was taken out by Morton's manager Mrs. Hoffman rose to speak, but Mrs Z G Wallace shut off further discussion by the introduction of this resolution "Inasmuch as Vice-President Morton occupies the second position in authority in an administration that favors the policy of high license, I move that the whole matter be dismissed from the consideration of the convention, as he could not have done all without rebuking the policy of his party was adopted.

Senator Blair, of New Hampshire, delivered address.

The election of officers was then taken up H Caroline B Buell was re-elected corresponding secretary Mrs. Mary A Woodbridge recording secretary and Miss Esther Hugh treasurer Mrs. R R M Johnston, president of the California union led the prayer meeting, at the conclusion of which Miss Willard said that from the sale of her book Glimpses of Fifty Years there remained due her a balance of $900 which she would donate to the W C T U [Great applause continuing until Miss Hugh called for order, and moved that the convention do not accept the money that Miss Willard had earned by her own hard work] The motion was seconded but Miss Willard refused to put it to the house Miss Willard's gift is one of the largest ever tendered the society

General Neal Dow spoke at some length He denounced the non partisan element in the W C T U, and said that the only course the organization could take with honor was the straightforward support of prohibition The old parties were irrevocably committed to the license policy

The executive committee held a long session to-night, considering the charges of the presidents of the Minnesota and Illinois unions against the president of the Iowa union. The outcome of the deliberations could not be learned to-night.

THE NEW MEXICO BLIZZARD.

Reports Confirming the Terrible Tales of Suffering—Snowing Again

TRINIDAD, Col., Nov 11.—Various parties who spent ten days in the snow blockade between Emery Gap and Folsom, N M. arrived in this city to-day They report that the suffering to men and animals was fully as great as formerly reported. Pat Casey, an engineer, was eleven days making the run from Trinidad, Texas, and return and was two days and nights without food One meal he made on a jack rabbit caught in the snow Seventy five men shovelling snow at Mt. Dora, were cut off from food for two days and nights They got some sheep out of the snow and roasted and ate them. A delayed passenger train was cut off from eating stations for three days. They drew on the express car for its food supplies. The laborers who shoveled snow, when hungry, tapped freight trains containing canned goods.

Two live goats were being shipped in a caboose, and the hungry men cut their throats and ate them raw

A sheep owner near Ute creek near Garcia, is reported to have lost 5000 sheep from a flock of 8000.

The road was opened with a rotary snow plow but remained open only a few hours. This morning the snow and winds blocked the cuts again, and the passenger train due here from the south this forenoon is stuck in the snow to-night. Altogether the blizzard has been a terrible one. None of the residents ever saw or heard of such a one in Southern Colorado or New Mexico

President Morgan Jones, of the Fort Worth road was himself a passenger from the scene of the blockade to-day

From Trampenas comes the news that three Mexican herders, George Pinard and two companions, perished on the second day of the storm. The Lujan brothers, on the Sexica, lost one herder, whose name is unknown. He was herding the horses in the San Raisel district for Mr Wright. He and two other men left the horses, and started for a place of shelter, and becoming numb he fell and perished. His companions were too much exhausted to help him. The total loss of life so far reported is nine. Several more are missing. Their friends are anxiously searching for them.

The loss of sheep in and around this place alone is 26 000 head. Several large herds on the creek have not yet been heard from. The loss in cattle will not be as heavy as was at first supposed, unless the cold weather continues. The snow began to fall again last night. There is about eight inches of new snow on top of the twenty inches already on the ground, which makes it impossible for railroad folks to keep the tracks clear They succeeded in getting trains through yesterday, but are all snowed up again to-night, and the cold is intense being almost down to zero.

SWEEPING OVER KANSAS.

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 11.—Dispatches from Southern and Western Kansas state that a blizzard is sweeping over that country The wind turned to the north early in the evening, and brought with it snow, which in some localities is drifting badly. At Arkansas City near the Indian territory line, a regular "norther" is reported At Syracuse the blizzard is at its hight. Abilene reports a severe wind and thick snow

THE INTERNATIONAL TOURISTS

They Are Deeply Impressed With the Need of Closer Trade Relations.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov 11.—The first journey of the International American tourists being practically ended here, an Associated Press representative to-day sought from a number of the delegates an expression of ideas.

Judge Alfonso, the delegate from Chili, said that his attention had been practically fixed upon the industries which produce the objects necessary to railways, because there is a great deal of railway construction in his country He believes that the commerce of this country with Chili will improve if American producers make known their productions by establishing agencies in that country Increase of communication and the cheapening of prices of transportation will largely contribute to the same result He believes in the feasibility of a railroad through the three Americas, and thinks its advantages would be considerable. Great embarrassment to trade arises from the complicated customs methods of the United States, and he thinks that a uniformity of customs regulations upon the simplest basis should be established. The coming conference will contribute powerfully to the union of the American nations.

General Pena, of Venezuela, said that during the journey the delegates had found a practical solution of the many commercial problems between the American countries. It is the conviction of most of the delegates that the main difficulty in developing mutual trade consists in lack of good communications. "This trip" said General Peraza, "has proved this much that all previous opinions regarding blood and languages as carr ers to a perfect understanding between nations are dissolved by the facts."

Minister Romero, of Mexico who has resided over twenty years in Washington and has travelled much throughout the country, spoke of the wonderful progress in the West, and had also been struck by the interest displayed everywhere in the subjects which the conference will discuss He thinks a great deal has been gained by calling the attention of the people of the United States to the resources of the other countries on this hemisphere and that an intercontinental railway scheme is feasible, and will before long be undertaken

Delegate Castellanos, of Salvador said that increase communications for commerce was absolutely necessary and that he should advocate subsidies A uniform standard of money is also needful An international railway would, with pleasure be aided by his country The opening of the Nicaragua canal will be a great boon to Salvador and all other republics South.

Delegate Celaya of Honduras said that he had been most impressed by the extraordinary energy of the people of the United States who never seemed to tire of work and whose ambition to excel knows no bounds He thinks our prosperity largely due to the development of the iron industry scientifically applied to machinery and raises a two things in which he thinks the United States unquestionably ahead of all other nations He strongly favors an international railroad

COLUMBUS O Nov 11—The official returns from 87 counties received at the secretary of state's office and the other twenty eight on telegrams from officials of the counties show that the majority for lieutenant governor will be 181 The figures will not vary from the final result The Republicans elect all the state ticket except the governor

THEY WILL BE RESHIPPED.

Captain Williams Makes a Report of the Loss of His Ship—The Crew Arrive.

The crew of the British barque General Picton, a full account of whose experience at sea was published in the telegraphic columns of THE OREGONIAN, last Friday morning, came up from Astoria yesterday on the Clan McPherson. Following is Captain Williams's statement, which he left at the office of British Consul Laidlaw:

Bark General Picton, (1199 reg.) twenty hands, left Garston June 29, 1889, cargo of coals for Iquesque; experienced fine weather to the equator, ordinary winds to Lake Tres, of River Plata strong S. W. gale, another between the Tankland and Staten Islands, thence to 56 deg. south, 76 deg. west, bolsterous weather 6 A. M., September 14, then moderate weather. We found that my cargo of coal was on fire.

Battened all the hatches down, made all sail for the land.

1 P. M.—Ship Clan McPherson was seen to windward. Signalled to her. She promptly bore down on us. Master of the General Picton went on board of the Clan McPherson and brought Captain Wilson on board of the General Picton. Seeing the state of the cargo, he offered to receive us all on board his ship or remain by us until night. Then Captain Wilson was put back on his ship.

When my boat came back all hands were called off. Requested to abandon. After some consultation opened watches again and dug into the coals. Found it worse, and unable to remain in the hold by the smoke. Then I yielded and ordered our boat out again.

At 5 P. M. we all left the General Picton in two boats, and all got safely on board the Clan McPherson by 6 P. M.

By 8 P. M. it was blowing strong NW gale. The General Picton was then a whole mass of flames.

We had our last view of the General Picton at 10 P. M. She was a mass of flames in latitude 56 deg. south 76 deg west. Same northwest gale continued for three days.

Williams, master of the late General Picton, officers and the crew have arrived all safe at Portland, and beg to tender their sincere thanks to Captain Wilson for his prompt attention to our signals and his humane and hospitable treatment to all while on board.

WILL BE RESHIPPED.

The captain and his crew, nineteen souls in all, have been quartered by the British consul at the International hotel. Here they will stay, at the expense of her majesty, until they have new places secured for them. The consul stated to a reporter that he expects to have them all reshipped in a few days.

THE ORGAN IS PLACED.

It Will Be Used in Two Concerts to Be Given by Grace M. E. Church.

The Grace M. E. church organ is now completed, and Mr. Ryder has tested it thoroughly. It will be used in public for the first time on Monday and Tuesday evenings of next week at 8 o'clock. The sweetness and variety of the organ is phenomenal; and Mr. Ryder says the "Vox Humana" is the most like the human voice of any he has ever played. Entering the church while he is testing this set of pipes, the impression received is that of a choir of finely trained singers. The organ as a whole is a marvel of excellence, combining richness, brilliancy, sweetness, variety and sonorous power to the highest point of art. It has three manuales, or keyboards, of sixty-one notes each, and a pedal organ of twenty-seven notes. There are thirty-four stops and 1521 pipes, with six combination pedals for grouping the stops with the feet.

The case is of cherry wood, highly polished. There are about sixty display (speaking) pipes handsomely grouped and decorated artistically in gold and colors. The bellows is operated by a hydraulic water motor, which is furnished by the builders of the organ, and which is now attached and in operation. It is automatic, and controlled by the organist at the keyboard.

Mr. Ryder has demonstrated that he is a thorough master of his business, as well as of his profession as a performer. He is said by critics to be a thorough master of the instrument, and great expectations are aroused of the value and interest of the coming concerts.

ALL MISGIVINGS UNFOUNDED.

The Industrial Exposition Has Proved a Grand Financial Success.

There were some misgivings in the minds of friends of the Industrial Fair Association as to the outcome of the Exposition, that is, as to whether it would be a success financially or not. Some thought the association had planned the fair, and the whole affair, on rather too grand a scale, in fact, that it was ahead of the town and the times, and that the result would be that it would have to be carried on for several years, probably, at a loss to the association.

The stockholders and the public generally will be pleased to learn that all these misgivings were unfounded, and that the fair has proved a success financially, as it was in every other respect. The receipts amounted to $47,000, and, after paying for the dynamo and electric lighting, the buildings for the fat stock show, the fence around the grounds and other things, not included in the legitimate expenses of the fair, and amounting to about $20,000, there is still a surplus left, enough to make a dividend.

The directors are delighted with the outcome of their labors, and will spend more money and give a grander and better fair in every respect next year, and will, without doubt, be rewarded by making more money in return. There is not much danger of getting up anything too extensive for Portland these times.

THE MAINE'S HOP CARGO.

The Second Cargo of Puyallup Hops Reaches London Safely.

Assistant General Freight Agent Fulton, of the Northern Pacific, received a telegram yesterday from J. T. Sickle, general western agent of the Atlantic transport line, Chicago, advising him of the arrival in London on Saturday last, November 9, of the steamship Maine, with 1850 bales of hops, shipped by a special train from Puyallup, by E. Meeker & Co., on the 9th of October, routed via the Northern Pacific, Wisconsin Central, the Pittsburg, Fort Wayne & Chicago, care of the Atlantic transport line to Baltimore, and thence to London direct. The hops therefore arrived in London just thirty days after their departure from Puyallup.

This is the second trainload shipment of hops ever made from the Pacific coast to Europe via the Atlantic seaboard, the first instance being that of the Montana last month.

IN THEIR NEW QUARTERS.

Major Handbury's Office Being Moved to the Corner of Oak and Fourth Streets.

The office of Major T. H. Handbury, United States engineer, is being removed from Union block to the old Savier residence at the corner of Oak and Fourth streets, lately vacated by Major Jones. The building has been renovated and nicely fitted up, and an addition has been built on the upper story for a "blue print room." Major Handbury has quite a force of clerks, and their office furniture will have none too much space in the new quarters. It will take several days to get everything in order in the new building, and Chief Clerk Stevens has his hands full supervising the hoisting of big desks, cabinets, etc., in through the second story windows. Some of the clerks are already located in their new quarters and the remainder are on the ragged edge incidental to moving.

THE FIFTH GOSPEL MEETING.

The Religious Work at the First Congregational Church Increasing in Interest.

There was a good attendance at the First Congregational Gospel meeting last night. The devotional services began at 7:40, with singing, led by Professor Wilder, No. 177, "Savior, More Than Life to Me," being the first hymn, and No. 171, "Only Trust Him," the next.

Two prayers were offered, both by young men who have been living the Christian life but a short time, but who have had in their own experience, so they claimed, abundant testimony of the faithfulness of God to forgive the sins of all who will confess Him before men. "Pass Me Not, Oh! Gentle Savior," was then heartily sung.

The Scriptures—Acts xvi:12-20—were read by Rev. Cephas F. Clapp, who interspersed the reading with running commentaries upon the text, which added very much to its interest. It was shown, he said, that the methods used by the Almighty to arouse His children to a realizing sense of their condition as sinners, was very much the same in the days of the apostles as it is now. There was the gathering together of one accord in one place, and united prayer was put up to the throne of grace for a blessing to descend upon a waiting and anxious people. When the love of God fills the heart of all Christians, a moral earthquake is the result. The devil never made any mistake about Christ. He was always conscious of His power. Nothing pleases Satan better than to find Christians lukewarm. Then he gets in his most effective work. After supplicating God for guidance in the meeting, and that some hear might be quickened into a desire to begin a new life, Mr. Clapp preached a sermon from the text, Acts xvi:30—"What must I do to be saved?" This is the paramount question of all the ages, said the speaker among other things. It is the question of questions that every human soul must meet and settle, sooner or later. It can be avoided, and one of the best aids in its settlement is to learn to think, to think. One cannot be a Christian without thinking. Allegiance to Christ must come from a deep, settled conviction of the duty and love due from a creature to a creator. Salvation is simple. It is not lodged about with difficulties. The soul that wills, may be saved. The Lord stands ready to meet every soul half way. He invites and will receive if only we will go to him. The personality of the Savior was clearly illustrated. There need be no question about it."

The speaker closed with the prayer that every one might have more light upon the great and momentous question set forth in the text, "What must I do to be saved?"

After the solo "There is a Stranger at the Door," was sung by Professor Wilder, the invitation was extended, and three arose for prayers.

The meeting will be held this evening at 7:30 as usual.

Judge Shattuck Dismisses the Habeas Corpus Proceedings Yesterday.

Judge Shattuck dismissed the habeas corpus proceedings yesterday morning in the case of C. B. Richards, the East Portland Salvationist, arrested on the 9th of this month for violating the band ordinance of that city, and remanded the petitioner back to jail. This is another black eye for the Salvation Granka.

The court decided that the commitment and other papers in the case were regular, and he would not interfere; but if the evidence had been presented to him that the applicant had simply been playing a bass drum, of which he could not take judicial knowledge in these proceedings, he would have discharged Richards.

IN THE POLICE COURT.

Drunks, Thugs, Beggars, and Thieves Arraigned Before Judge Tanner.

The routine, prosaic nature of the police court proceedings is occasionally varied by the appearance of a large number of offenders, as the study of their widely differing physiognomies always furnishes amusement if not instruction, to those present. Such a session was held yesterday. The dock was well filled with offenders charged with many different crimes, and their appearance would indicate that they were tainted with all shades of guilt.

First, as usual, the every-day common drunks had their cases disposed of. Of these, J. A. Hodgson, William Harris, W. P. Ragsdale, Kittie Currie, Al. Kennedy, Mack Noland, Frank Lamar, Brick Flynn, Fred Saffron, and Robert Callan were fined $5 each; B. F. Gary was fined $10; Max Collins, $15; and George Kochler, $20.

Daniel Geinlan was fined $10 for conducting himself in a disorderly manner on the streets; Sam Price and Albert Lawrence were taxed $20 each for indulging in a "rough and tumble" fight; Edward C. Poyson was fined $10 for peddling without a license; Ah Chung and Ah Wong, $5 each for burning rubbish on the streets; and John Quenlin, a lusty ablebodied beggar, was fined $10. Jennie Walton, a 16-year-old girl, appeared in court on a charge of wandering about the streets after 12 o'clock midnight. She was in charge of the Boys' and Girls' Aid Society some time ago, but as they could not do anything with her she has been a sort of a wandering street Arab ever since. She will not remain at home, because she claims that her parents abuse and ill-treat her. There may be some truth in this, but it is more true that her evil associates have brought her to the condition she now is in. The court sentenced her to spend twenty days in an upper cell of the city jail.

In addition to receiving a fine for begging, John Quenlin was fined $50 for assaulting M. Harrington.

Thomas Young was bound over to appear before the grand jury on a charge of stealing $25 from the person of W. P. Ragsdale. Ragsdale was lying asleep in a saloon on North Front street, whereupon the defendant deemed it expedient to ease his pockets. Several watched the performance, and thereon hangs the tale. Young's bail was fixed at $500, and Ragsdale is being held as a witness.

A young man named Harry Trimmer was held to answer on the sum of $500 on a charge of burglarizing the Occident hotel. There are grave doubts as to the guilt of the young man, and the probability is that the grand jury will fail to return an indictment.

OPEN MEETING HELD LAST NIGHT.

An open meeting of the Brotherhood of Painters and Decorators of America No. 48, was held at St. Mary's hall last evening. The attendance was large, including a number of ladies. A very interesting and profitable time was experienced. An address was delivered by Mr. E. T. Nobb, the president, that was enthusiastically received. Mrs. A. Carlson made an appeal in the supreme name of the sisterhood to guard and protect the interests of labor, to watch over it and crown its exertions by success. Addresses were also made by C. A. Lincoln, and J. A. Power of the Typographical Union.

The following programme was then rendered:

Recitation	Miss Fisher
Song	Mr. Holmquist
Guitar Solo	H. L. Misner
Recitation	Mr. Conrad
Song	J. Ruddman
Recitation	Miss Wise
Piccolo and guitar solo	Ruddman and Misner
Recitation	Miss Lizzie Creecy

At the close of the programme the floor was cleared and dancing commenced and continued for several hours.

SILKS

The line of Black Dress Silks, direct from the manufacturers, which we have just received, needs no sensational advertising or a corps of expert salesmen to talk the merits of the fabric up in order to sell them. They will sell on sight and in the wear they will advertise themselves. Of course we have our usual Gros Grain Silks at 60c, 75c and $1, but the silks we have just opened are new weaves in Cashmere Dress Silks and worth from 50c to $1 a yard more than we ask for them. JOSEPH, THE NEZ PERCE.

The Noted Chief Comes to Portland to Visit General Gibbon.

He Talks About the Wrongs of His Race and His Tribe—Visit to Vancouver—Interesting Ceremony.

Joseph, the noted Nez Perce chief, came from The Dalles Sunday morning, and lost no time in getting aboard the Vancouver train. He was accompanied by the veteran Indian scout, Arthur R. Chapman.

The great chief was anxious to meet General Gibbon. He had been seriously disappointed in not seeing Senator Dawes, for he wished to talk over with him the needs of his tribe. Having failed in this through a misunderstanding of the army officers, he decided to come to Portland anyway and make sure of seeing General Gibbon.

"OF FALCON GLANCE AND LION BEARING."

Chief Joseph is a remarkably fine specimen of a man. He is fully six feet in his moccasins, and weighs about 200 pounds. He wears a neatly-fitting suit of navy blue, with United States brass buttons ornamenting the coat. A light blue silk handkerchief, tied in a bow at the collar of a blue flannel shirt, was the only bit of bright color about him. His features are very fine and denote decided character; his forehead is broad and high, a lightly sloping from a pair of heavy beetling eyebrows, above a pair of piercing black eyes. His hair, black and straight, is remarkably fine for an Indian's, and is glossy without any bear's grease. He wears it brushed high from his forehead, the long ends being worked into two short braids, which falls in front of each ear. His hands and feet are small and well shaped; of the former he is very proud, and spends much time in manicuring them. His skin is of a light copper color, and in the sunlight takes on a beautiful reddish hue. He is certainly a very prepossessing Indian.

HE LOVES HIS PEOPLE.

In the course of a conversation held through Mr. Chapman, the old chief said:

"I am about 49 years old, and live on the Colville reservation with 111 of my band. I am very sorry I did not see Senator Dawes. I wanted to ask him to give us a school on the Nespelem. Our young boys must learn to read and write.

"I cannot talk or understand English; I don't know why, but I can't get it through my ears. I want to, but because I did not learn when I was young, I have to sit here in this room and am not able to understand a word you say.

"I am very anxious to get my people to live in houses, and they want to live that way also. My people are not lazy, but they don't know how to work, and there is no one to teach them or show them how."

GROUNDS OF DISSATISFACTION.

The chief spoke freely of the trouble he had had with the late Indian agent at the reservation.

"For two years," he said, "we have had logs cut by our young men, lying by the government will waiting for them to be sawed into lumber, so that we could build houses, but the agent would do nothing for us.

"This thing of feeding, feeding all the time is no use to help us. We want to learn to work and how to live. Give us a chance and a start and we will get along.

"I am going now to see my great friend General Gibbon. I will tell him that I want to live like the white man, but I can not work with my fingers unless I have some one to show me how. Mr. Cole, the new agent, seems to take some interest in us. He has been with us only two months but he has already begun to cut some of our logs."

"WITHERING FROM THE LAND."

Chief Joseph again reverted to the government's Indian policy.

"We were all right in 1863," he said, "when we were in our own country, and all we asked was to be let alone. Then we were told the reservation system was the best thing for us; and again we were driven from them, and are now told, when there are few of us left, that we must each take 160 acres of land work it, and are not even taught how.

"My people are all dying off, and it is the fault of the agents who do not show us how to live. When I went to the Indian territory my band numbered over a thousand, and look at them now!"

INTERPRETER CHAPMAN.

Chief Joseph's companion and interpreter was Mr. Arthur R. Chapman, who probably knows more about Indians than any other man in this country, and was for many years an Indian scout and fighter. He first joined the United States army with General Howard, and of late has been a special attache of the war department. He is known personally by all the Indian chiefs in the country, and they repose implicit confidence in him. He was at Bear Paw mountain when Chief Joseph surrendered in 1877 to General Miles, and has since taken him and other chiefs to Washington, D. C., several times, and also to the Indian territory.

REAL CAUSE OF THE NEZ PERCES WAR.

Mr. Chapman was good enough to explain the real cause of the trouble that drove Joseph on the warpath. The interpreter, Whitman, told the Indians that General Howard said if they were not all back on the reservation in thirty days with their stock the soldiers would drive them back and take what stock was left without the Indians. At least that is the way Joseph understood him.

General Howard, however, did not mean to take their stock; he would have given them time to get all their horses.

The Indians tried hard to get their stock across Snake river, and lost more than half of it, and were even then in bad time, so they became disheartened and took to the mountains. There a council was held and war declared. Joseph himself being off on a hunting trip on the day they came to the decision, but of course agreed to it.

"Joseph," said Mr. Chapman, "was a brave Indian and a good fighter."

AT VANCOUVER.

HE ASSISTS GENERAL GIBBON IN THE PERFORMANCE OF A PLEASING CEREMONY.

Upon arriving at Vancouver, Joseph became the guest of General Gibbon.

The consultation which he had so eagerly looked forward to, and which was gladly acceded to by General Gibbon, and an interruption yesterday afternoon which was not without interest to the chief.

Joseph was made a participant in quite an interesting ceremony. Musician D. Lunsford, now general service messenger, was presented by General Gibbon with the "distinguished marksman's" badge in the presence of the whole department staff.

Chief Joseph was requested by the general to pin the badge upon the soldier's breast. General Gibbon accompanied his request with the remark that it would add to the soldier's feeling of pride to have it fastened on his breast by a great Indian chief who had once been a dangerous foe.

Joseph complied with his request, not without evident satisfaction and pleasure in doing so.

He expects to close his visit this morning and return to the reservation.

MONDAY'S LEGAL ROUND UP.

Before Judge Deady—Grand Jurors Drawn—Wants a Divorce—Criminal Matters—Notes.

Judge Deady held a session of the United States district court yesterday.

James Reeves, the young man who, after being released from jail here, returned to the Umatilla reservation and inaugurated a reign of terror with the aid of a shotgun, was arraigned and pleaded guilty, and was fined $1 and sentenced to one year in the penitentiary. He will never pay the dollar but the remainder of the punishment he will be obliged to suffer.

Hugh White pleaded guilty to supplying whisky to Indians and was fined $10. It was his first offense, he said, and was committed as soon as he arrived in the state and he has been in jail ever since. He says as he was walking up town from the depot at Pendleton, an Indian asked him to go into a saloon and get a dollar's worth of whisky for him. He wished to keep on the right side of the inhabitants of the country he had chosen for his future home, and so complied with the request of the guileless red man. He knows better now, and will eschew Indians in future. His story may be true, but it is likely he is not so innocent as he would appear.

DEFENSE TO AN ACCOUNT.

Mrs. Elisabeth Dodge, who lives on O street, near Sixteenth, has been sued by a contractor named M. Reynolds for $50, which he alleges she owes him for putting a foundation under her dwelling. The defendant does not deny that the foundation was built, but she alleges that the work was so poorly done as to be a damage to her property instead of a benefit, and, therefore, she declined to pay the bill until the foundation was made necessary. The contractor holds that the work was well done. Hearing of the case was postponed. A day will be set for it as soon as the lawyers agree upon one.

MATTERS CRIMINAL.

Fred Smith, indicted for larceny in the dwelling of Eugene Craig on the 6th of October, was allowed to plead guilty to simple larceny and sentenced to six months in the county jail.

Counsel for James Foyle, convicted of conspiring to kidnap, was granted another day to argue motion for a new trial.

E. G. English, indicted for obtaining money under false pretenses by means of fraudulent checks, had his time to plead extended for one week from next Wednesday.

WAS HE AN ACCOMPLICE?

Theodore Campbell, an employe of the barber shop at No. 80 First street, has been arrested on complaint of the new purchaser, William H. H. Young, on a criminal charge. Young is the man who was victimized by Steve Murray, the absconding barber. Campbell's connection with the affair seems to be that he told Young there was no mortgage on the place, and that he was actively instrumental in effecting the fraudulent sale of the mortgaged place to Young for $350, which Murray got and skipped the town. Campbell was released on $50 cash bail. He says he told Young, when questioned, that he knew nothing about the shop's condition. The case is set for 1:30 today, before Justice Phelan. Meanwhile the shop's control is in statu quo. Mr. Ward offers to let Young have it if he will assume the unpaid contract of Murray. Otherwise he will have to take possession. Some think the absent barber has gone to British Columbia.

AT THE CHRISTIAN TABERNACLE.

Dr. Reese Preaches a Powerful Sermon—Announcement for This Evening.

(Communicated.)

There was a splendid attendance at the new Christian tabernacle, corner Mont Park and Columbia, last night. Dr. Reese preached a sermon of wonderful power. His theme was "More than Miracles." His scripture motto, John xiv:12.

Believing in Christ, the preacher said, is the condition of all Christian life and work. The work is certain, if the believing is present. We believe what we live, as a principle, or as a policy. Is yours a life of policy? The Savior said, "The works that I do." What works? Miracles, wonderous works. These certainly fulfilled, in the Apostles. "Greater works." What can be greater than miracles? All moral and spiritual work is greater than miracles. Christian love is greater. Miracles are inferior, because they are wrought on physical objects, and were addressed to the senses. The object of miracles is to lead to faith in Christ, to Christian love.

Faith in Christ is greater than a miracle, because more enduring. Lazarus' body, though raised from the dead, is long ago dust. Where are the eyes opened, the palsied limb healed and the diseased body cured? Where is the soul saved by faith? It cost more to save a soul than to perform a miracle. A word, and the blind saw. A touch, and disease fled. A sentence, and the dead leaped forth. But the blood of Christ, the agony of the bloody sweat and the cross, were the cost of faith, hope and love. The reason for miracles was not in themselves "That ye might believe," etc. Christian love, faith, prayer and work are all far above miracles.

Believing in Christ has the unspeakable value of leading us to his character and his work, and he who exemplifies the Christ character in his life is doing greater works than raising the dead, stilling the storm or curing the body. The sermon was a rich feast to the spiritually minded, and was listened to with rapt attention throughout.

Services this evening, preceded by a song service, conducted by the pastor, Rev. Wolgeh. The subject of the discourse will be "The Mission of the Holy Spirit." All are cordially invited. Gospel Hymns No. 5 are used.

Roork Fined for Committing an Assault on His Neighbor.

A Cowardly and Brutal Husband—Curious Collection—License Entertainment—Meetings—Baby Home—Franchise Acceptable.

Mr. P. Roork, a well known gentleman and former justice of the peace at Pleasant Home, was before Recorder Mayo yesterday afternoon on charge of assaulting Mr. George Harrington, of Powell's Valley. Mr. Harrington was the first witness called, and he stated that he called at Mr. Roork's room in the Brayman block, November 8, to see him about some money matters. He had some words with Roork, when he (Harrington) was ordered from the room. He went into the hall where he was pursued by Roork, who struck him twice and then kicked him.

The witness was laboring under strong mental excitement as he gave his evidence. He was sitting down when he commenced, but arose to his feet and gesticulated wildly. He had to be checked several times by the recorder and his attorney. Roork, who acted as his own lawyer in the case, made a statement in his own behalf, in which he claimed he ordered Harrington from his room and the latter refusing to go he expedited his departure, slapping him twice with his open hand and helping him through the door with a kick. What kick, however, was fatal to his case and he was fined $10 and costs.

Mr. Roork arose and asked the recorder to make the fine $20, as he desired to appeal the case, which was done. Mr. Roork seems to have been goaded into acts of violence by the persistent annoyance he has suffered from the hands of Harrington, and went too far in the matter.

BABY HOME MATTERS.

Mrs. Harbin, the matron of the Baby Home, of East Portland, wishes to return grateful acknowledgements to the Scio, Linn county, W. C. T. U., for a roll of neatly-made clothing for the little ones, supplemented by a postal order for $5, forwarded by their secretary, Mrs. E. F. Pentland, as a Thanksgiving donation to the home. How many unions will follow the example set by the Astoria and Scio unions?

Mrs. Hooper, the deserted wife who found shelter and aid in caring for a sick baby in the Baby Home, has been sent to her mother's home, in Tennessee, by the managers of the home. They obtained the means by soliciting. She has written to the superintendent, Mrs. Harbin, announcing her safe arrival in Tennessee, and expressing her gratitude to all who contributed money to defray the expense of the journey. Also to the ladies who made up a large basket of provisions for her use on the way.

TURNED HIS FAMILY OUT.

George Gollings, who lives on Fifth and O streets, has been in the habit of amusing himself when drunk by driving his wife and family out of the house, and on more than one occasion, so they state, he compelled them to sleep outside. Sunday night he went home drunk and drove every one out. An officer was sent for, but his wife would not make complaint and the man was not arrested. But shortly afterwards he raised a bigger row than ever, hustling the family out into the open air. A policeman was summoned and this time Gollings was locked up in the city jail. He had quite a struggle at his house with his wife and boy before he got them out. At the trial, however, the wife would make no complaint, and he was only fined for being drunk and disorderly. The fellow was discharged to repeat the performance when he feels so inclined.

W. C. T. U. MEETING.

The East Portland W. C. T. U. will hold their next regular meeting Tuesday, November 12, at 2:30 P. M., at the hall, near Fifth and I streets. The president desires to see all the members present, as she intends giving full instructions to superintendents of the different departments in regard to methods of work; also the appointing of leaders for the forthcoming gospel temperance meeting. Everybody come.

MRS. E. H. HARBIN, Recorder.

THE FRANCHISE ACCEPTABLE.

After the passage of the Thompson-Henston franchise last Friday night, a representative of the company stated that the franchise is acceptable, and it is presumed that work will be proceeded with at an early day. It will be necessary to construct an elevated roadway from Fourth to Water street, and it would be a matter of economy for the property holders on Ankeny street to join with the railway company and build an elevated roadway the full width of the street.

A CURIOUS COLLECTION.

The city marshal has quite a collection of curious articles in his desk in the city hall which he obtained from tramps. Among the articles is a knife with a blade filed into a key for the purpose of opening the locks of box cars. It evidently had seen service and enabled the owner to travel many miles in box cars.

SOME REVENUE.

There are now nineteen saloons in this city, and one more is to start in a short time. The revenue is $300 from each saloon, which will give the city $6000 a year from this source. The pay roll of the police force is $350 a month. The revenue from the saloons nearly pays the expense of the police force.

GOSPEL MEETINGS.

Gospel meetings commenced in the young men's rooms last night for young men, and will be continued all through the week. All young men are invited.

A PROPHET

Is One's Own Country Is Sometimes Useful.

We are neither a prophet nor the son of a prophet, but we have made a dollar or two by having faith in Portland, and who still believe that "real estate is the only safe investment." We are selling lots in the Second Electric addition for $50, $100 down and $10 a month without interest. This is more than we propounded the lots would be worth a year, as you will see by referring to the item taken from THE OREGONIAN of November 30, 1888, as follows:

"To him that hath, more shall be given. One of our prominent East Side pioneers informs us that his property (purchased about thirty years ago) has advanced in value at the rate of 600 per cent. per annum ever since its purchase. We have a few nice lots, 50 by 132 feet, on Hawthorne avenue that are now selling at $550 each. We believe that they will double in value within twelve months."

We have recently recorded a plat of the Third Electric addition. It is situated one and one-half miles south of Mount Tabor. It lies high and sightly, is all cleared and is laid out in large lots about four times the size of a city lot. The title is perfect, and we invite intending purchasers to examine the property at their convenience. This property will be sold in single lots to the highest bidder on easy terms, $100 cash, balance in monthly instalments of $10 each without interest. The purchasers will receive a gift of a handsome cottage and lot valued at $2500. A deposit of $50 will be required from every purchaser at time of sale. The sale takes place at the rooms of the Real Estate Exchange, 125 First street, on Saturday next at 2 o'clock P. M. Remember that these lots are to be sold without reserve and at your own price. Comfortable seats will be provided for the ladies.

WOODSTOCK.

Mr. Preston, of Seattle, who is to superintend the construction of the Waverly Woodstock Electric Motor Line, is in the city, and to-morrow active work will commence. Woodstock is now on the market and sales are active. Those who invest at present will reap the reward, as prices are lower than any one like addition—hardly one-fourth of other localities which boast no handsomer scenery and certainly no better means of communication than Woodstock will have four months from to-day. The Telfer & Stearns Real Estate Company are ready to show this property and quote prices which are for lots 100 feet square from $250 upwards. All such prices and 6 cents fare Woodstock lots will go pretty fast.

If you are all run down, fagged out, take Simmons Liver Regulator and be spry.

Drop a Nickel
in your grocer's hand and get a package of PYLE'S PEARLINE—the original and best Washing Compound. It will save you time, trouble, health, wear and tear, which cannot be computed in dollars.
It's better—easier—quicker than soap for washing clothes and housecleaning; if that's not true, what becomes of the many, many millions of packages sold annually? What induces the hundreds of imitations? Did it ever occur to you as strange that almost every imitation of Pearline is given a name ending in INE? A "wolf in sheep's clothing" trick; depend upon it, their tricks don't stop there. Peddlers and unscrupulous or misinformed grocers will tell you this (an imitation) is as "good as Pearline," "same as Pearline," etc., etc. It's false—there's nothing like Pearline—nothing as good as Pearline. Why?—that's our secret—but you will recognize and share the benefits of that secret when you use Pearline. 166 JAMES PYLE, New York
